Pension Plan Set By WSB

New Policy Gives No Benefit Limit, Or Contribution Top

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—A long-awaited policy on retirement pension plans, which puts no limit on contributions by employers or workers and no limit on benefits, was issued tonight by the Wage Stabilization Board (WSB).

The action paved the way for automatic approval of hundreds of new and revised employe pension plans which have been held up for months awaiting a board policy.

WSB chairman Nathan Feinsinger told a news conference the policy allows "maximum latitude" in establishing pension and retirement systems.

The new policy does not mean that employers, or unions, are obligated to agree to the establishment of pension plans. It merely deals with the question of what plans are permissible under the government's anti-inflation rules.

3 Standards Established

The regulation sets these three minimum standards to which new pension plans must conform for board approval:

1. The normal age at which a person may qualify for benefits must be at least 65.

2. Benefits other than death payments must be payable at least over the lifetime of the retired employe.

3. Any benefits from employer contributions to employes whose jobs end before retirement—those who moved to another job or get fired, for example—shall carry no cash surrender value to the employe and shall not be paid out until the employe reaches his normal retirement age.

Workers who retire before age 65 (as contrasted to quitting or getting fired) would be entitled to reduced benefits so that the fund remains actuarily sound—that is, these payments must not hamper the retirement fund's financial condition.

The new policy is expected to clear up more than 500 pension requests now before the board and ease the board's efforts to cut down a backlog of wage cases numbering more than 10,000. The board has been working on the new policy for more than six months.

Here's what an employer must do to get approval of a new pension plan:

Send the plan to the board. The board will acknowledge receipt. Then if the employer doesn't hear from the board within 30 days from the date of acknowledgment, the plan can take automatic effect.

Pension plans which are not approved in this way will be considered as special petition cases. The board said it may consider some plans unstabilizing and hold them up for special study even though they meet the three minimum standards:

Until now, no pension plan could take effect unless the employer and employes agreed to deduct employer contributions from the 10 per cent catch-up wage formula. For that reason, very few new plans have gone into effect since the January, 1951, wage-price freeze.

The regulation also allows new or changed deferred - payment, profit-sharing, plans which provide for benefits paid wholly out of employer contributions. These are approvable if:

1. Payments do not begin until at least ten years after an employe has been admitted to the plan.

2. Payments are payable for at least a ten year period.

3. No immediate benefit from an employer's contribution is provided in a lump sum or loan except in the extent of the employe's death.

Board Urges Senate To Speed UMT Plan

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The Senate was urged today to approve a start on Universal Military Training this year even though the first group of 18-year-old trainees should be "as small as a thousand."

This advice came from the Senate Armed Services Committee in a detailed report on its UMT bill unanimously approved early this week by the seven Democratic and six Republican members.

"Such a limited program would provide the nation with at least a nucleus, however small, of well-trained reservists wro are not veterans," the report said.

Showdown tests in Congress on the permanent compulsory military training program will get under way next week. The first action is slated in the House.

Two Women Killed In Kansas Car Smash

OVERLAND PARK, Kas., Feb. 23—(AP)—Two women were killed and two persons were injured in a motorcar-truck collision this afternoon on U. S. highway No. 69 near here.

Killed were Mrs. Glenn Cook, 48, of Pleasanton, Kas., and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. J. Stockwell, 27, also of Pleasanton. Injured were Beverly Ann Stockwell, ten-year-old daughter of Mrs. Stockwell, and Jack R. Carter, (of 2001 Ruby Ave.), Kansas City, Kas., driver of the truck.

The girl is at the University of Kansas Medical Center. She suffered multiple compound fractures and her condition is said to be critical.

Thunderbirds Recall One-Year-Ago Today

WITH THE 45TH DIVISION, Korea, Feb. 23—(AP)—Thoughts of many Thunderbirds will go back tomorrow to a sunny afternoon just one year ago.

Some were sampling the pleasures of old New Orleans on a week-end pass from Camp Polk, La. Others were in nearby Deridder, La., and a few were enjoying a pass home in Oklahoma.

But a terse Department of the Army announcement changed their whole future. It was an alert for shipment to Japan.

When they were called to active duty Sept. 1, 1951, few Thunderbirds thought it would lead to service in the Far East. Fewer still guessed their outfit would become the first National Guard division to enter combat since World War II.

Two Persons Die In Wreck Near Tipton

Miss Barbara Simmers, 26, an employee of the Third National Bank, and Elbert C. Reed, 27, Auburn, Nebr., were killed in a headon collision of their automobiles, three miles east of Tipton on Highway 50, about 7:30 a.m. Saturday. Mrs. Reed, 26, and their son, Larry Reed, seven, are in a critical condition in the Latham Sanitarium in California.

Miss Simmers, who was a stenographer at the bank, was enroute back to Sedalia from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Simmers, north of Jamestown, headed west on the highway, while the other car, driven by Mrs. Reed, was enroute east.

According to Trooper H. E. Priess, of the State Highway Patrol, California, who investigated the accident, Miss Simmers had started to pass a gasoline transport truck, during a dense fog, and as she came alongside the truck the Reed car came from the opposite direction and the crash occurred.

Miss Simmers was alone in a 1949 Chevrolet coach which belonged to her father, while the Reed car, a 1940 Dodge sedan, contained Mr. and Mrs. Reed and their son. Both automobiles were demolished.

Miss Simmers, according to information received here, suffered a broken neck, while Reed suffered a broken neck and skull fracture.

Mrs. Reed received a severe injury to the left eye, shock, slight concussion, injury to the right knee and severe bruises. Her son suffered a concussion, possible skull fracture, bruises and shock.

Miss Simmers had spent Washington's birthday with her parents and was returning to her duties at the bank. Mr. and Mrs. Reed and son were enroute to Salem, Mo., where they were to visit Mrs. Reed's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dow Whitaker.

Besides Trooper Priess, Dr. Kenyon Latham, coroner, and Prosecuting Attorney John Kibbe, California, investigated the accident.

Miss Simmers, who resided at the home of Mrs. Alma Hausam, 510 Dal-Whi-Mo court, formerly was secretary in the office of Leo J. Harned, when he was prosecuting attorney. June 1, 1949, she went with the Third National Bank and has since been employed there.

Surviving her are her parents, whose home is north of Jamestown, Mo., and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. John Kuhn, Prairie Home.

The body of Miss Simmers was taken to the Bowlin funeral home at California, and Mr. Reed's body was taken to the Richards funeral home at Tipton.

Critics Hammer McGrath

They Seek Hearing On Wealth Buildup While An Official

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Critics of Attorney General McGrath sought today to get him before a congressional committee to state under oath whether he has become a millionaire while in public office.

Rep. Hillings (R-Calif) agreed with Harold E. Stassen that McGrath should be called and questioned about his finances.

Hillings is a member of a House judiciary subcommittee which is just getting started on a full-scale inquiry into McGrath's official conduct as attorney general and into the Justice Department which he heads.

Hillings told newsmen he believes the group, which has not yet scheduled any hearings, should adopt Stassen's suggestion that it call McGrath for testimony about what Stassen terms his "accumulated wealth" since becoming governor of Rhode Island in 1940.

No Immediate Plans

Rep. Chelf (D-Ky), chairman of the subcommittee, said that "in due time McGrath will be given an opportunity to appear before the committee," although he added three are no plans to call the cabinet official immediately, as Stassen had suggested.

Chelf did not say whether McGrath would be queried about his personal fortune, but some questioning along that line appeared certain.

In a New York speech on Thursday night, Stassen, a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said he has received "confidential reports" that McGrath has become a millionaire.

McGrath, in a statement issued by the Justice Department, said he saw no need to comment "beyond thanking candidate Stassen for the compliment."

Chelf yesterday sent a telegram to Stassen inviting him to appear before the subcommittee to present "any credible evidence" he has to back up his statements."

In a telegram to each member of the subcommittee, Stassen said he would cooperate in any congressional inquiry into McGrath's personal fortune.

"In view of . . . his evasive comment of a flip nature to the press," Stassen said, "I respectfully suggest that he promptly be called and placed under oath for the inquiry."

Chelf Relies On Stassen

Chelf commented he had hoped that Stassen would have provided the committee or its investigators with some concrete evidence.

McGrath is a lawyer and has been active in the banking and real estate businesses. When he became attorney general in July, 1949, he resigned as president of a Savings and Loan Association and as director in six other business enterprises. McGrath is 48 and has served, among other offices, as attorney general and governor of Rhode Island (three terms as governor), as U. S. Senator, solicitor general and attorney general. He was chairman of the Democratic National Committee when President Truman was re-elected in 1948.

In 1948 the Washington Post quoted McGrath as saying his personal fortune was between $100,000 and $200,000, and probably closer to the lower figure.

Yugoslavs Request Help In Rescuing Snow-Bound

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 23 (AP)—Yugoslavia appealed to the International Red Cross today for a helicopter for rescue work in snow-isolated communities of Slovenia, in Yugoslavia's North. Officials said 50 persons have perished in the area in the last two weeks.

SCENE OF KOREAN RIOT—This is an air view of the UN prison stockade on Koje Island, off the coast of South Korea, where a Communist-led riot cost 76 lives. One American soldier and 75 Korean civilian internees were killed, U. S. authorities said. No war prisoners were involved in the riot, according to officers, who said about 1,500 civilian internees attacked U. S. troops with hand-made weapons. About 170,000 persons —prisoners of war and civilian internees—are confined in the UN Koje camp. (AP Wirephoto)

Thunderjet Crash Kills 15 People At Pusan

PUSAN, Korea, Feb. 23—(AP)—An F-84 Thunderjet hit a power plant Friday, then plowed through a hospital and set fourt homes ablaze, killing 15 persons and injuring 20.

Col. T. C. Green, who investigated the crash at Sadukni, 12 miles northwest of Pusan, said the pilot was among the dead.

Unrest Continues In Japan

TOKYO, Sunday, Feb. 23—(AP)—About 1,000 demonstrators, presumable Communists, attacked three police stations and tax officers Saturday in the heart of Kyoto, ancient capital of Japan, the newspaper Ashai said today.

Eleven police and one student were reported injured. Ten men and a woman were arrested.

Truce Talks Tied-Up

Enemy Terms Riot At Koje 'A Massacre'

MUNSAN, Korea, Sunday, Feb. 24—(AP)—The Korean armistice talks were tied into fresh knots today by a Communist charge that the Allies had "barbarously" massacred civilian prisoners on Koge island Monday.

Lodging a "serious protest" Saturday, Communist negotiators served notice they would have plenty more to say about the Redled riot in which 75 Korean prisoners and one U. S. soldier guard were killed.

"Our side reserves the right to pursue further into this intolerable, sanguinary incident," said Col. Tsai Cheng-Wen, Chinese Communist staff officer at the prisoner exchange session.

Reds Demand Inquiry

(A Peiping English language broadcast heard in San Francisco coached Tsai's remarks in these stronger words:

"We will continue with our accusation against you and take it before the people of the whole world. I hereby solemnly declare that we reserve the right to investigate this intolerable bloodshed."

However, Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols said later the word "investigate" was in the orignal typewritten draft of Tsai's statement but had been crossed out and the words "pursue further" inserted above in ink.

"Apparently Peiping did not get the last minute changes in the protest as lodged by Tsai," said the United Nations command spokesman.

"Perhaps they (the Reds) had at one time thought of accepting belatedly our invitation to go to Koje," Nuckols added, recalling that the Allies once invited the Communists to inspect Allied prisoner camps.

He said the invitation was never withdrawn "but there has been no new invitation."

The protest was delivered to Gen. Matthew B. Aidgway and an Allied spokesman indicated any reply would come from the supreme commander.

In this atmosphere of new bitterness, staff officers of both sides arranged to meet again at 8 p.m. Saturday CST to grapple again with the prisoner evchange and truce supervision issues.

The Communists Saturday seized upon the rioting to bolster their arguments against Allied demands for voluntary repatriations of prisoners. The Reds want all prisoners returned, forcibly if necessary.

In an adjoining tent, staff officers working on truce supervision remained deadlocked on the Communist nomination of Russia as one of six nations to provide neutral truce inspection teams.

The Communists did accept, however, the United Nations command compromise for the rotation of 35,000 troops monthly during an armistice. The Allies at one time demanded twice the number.

The Communists still balked, however, at the Allied minimum of six ports on each side through which troops would be supplied. They also rejected an Allied plan to write six ports into an agreement and give the armistice commission authority to change the number.

Koje Camp Commander States His Men Shot As Last Resort

KOJE ISLAND, Korea, Feb. 23 (AP)—The commander of U. S. troops who quelled Monday's Communist riot at this prison camp declared today his men fired only as a last resort at the attacking mob which screamed "kill the Americans."

When the riot ended, 75 Korean civilian internees and one U. S. soldier lay dead or mortally wounded. Another 139 Koreans and 39 U. S. soldier guards were wounded and 40 other soldiers suffered minor injuries.

Witnesses said that, contrary to first reports, practically all 5,900 men in notorious compound 62 rioted.

Brig. Gen. Francis T. Dodd, deputy chief of staff of the U. S. Eighth Army, who took over command of the Island prison after the rioting, told reporters the compound was dominated by "radical Communists."

Maj. John J. Klein, of Houston, Tex., commander of the troops involved, said "we could have stopped it in five minutes if we had just wanted to mow them down."

Troops Screen Prisoners

Officers and other witnesses gave this account:

About 750 members of the 25th Division's famed 27th Wolfhound Regiment entered the compound at 5:30 a. m., to "screen" the prisoners to see if they were Communists or loyal South Korean civilians who had been forced to help the Red armies.

All the other 37,000 civilian prisoners on Koje had been screened, but authorities had postponed interviewing the men in compound 62 because of their hostility.

Interpreters who entered the prisoner quarters were seized and beaten unmercifully with axe handles, tent poles, spikes clubs and stones.

So were several soldiers who tried to rescue them. Klein said that to save them, several soldiers opened fire with carbines and rifles, and four or five prisoners were killed.

He said he thought he heard shots coming from the prison quarters before any of his men fired, but no guns were found in the compound later.

After the first volley the prisoners began pouring from their tents and Adobe huts.

"They came out like water through a dam," Klein said. "We just couldn't stop them."

"Kill the Americans—they are our enemies," the Communists shouted.

Other prisoners still in their quarters hurled rocks and sticks. Some kicked out the sides of their huts in their haste to get into the open.

Mob Formed Four Groups

The mob formed into four groups. Two groups quickly joined and then tried to link up with the other two. Leaders egged the prisoners on. The mob moved toward the grim line of waiting soldiers.

The prisoners hurled rocks and beat every soldier they reached.

Klein ordered his men to throw concussion grenades, whose explosives have a jolting effect but hurl no deadly fragments.

These had no effect. A prisoner tossed a home-made grenade at the soldiers, and the mob surged forward again.

Only then did Klein order his men to open fire because, he said, "nothing else would stop them."

The prisoners then drew back, singing Communist songs, waving Red flags and flaunting a picture of Premier Stalin of Russia.

Col. Maurice Fitzgerald, then commander of the prison, arrived and talked to the Communist leaders.

"I told them they were responsible," he said, "and I told them to quiet the mob. I realized that we couldn't screen them that day, so we pulled out."

Officials declined to speculate on the motives behind the riot.

Army Buildup Gets 'Go-Ahead' Signal From NATO Group

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 23 — (AP) — The Atlantic nations tonight committed themselves to a master plan for the biggest peacetime military buildup in history.

The plan calls for an Allied defense wall of between 45 and 50 divisions to be stretched this year across the continent of Europe.

This is to be raised to double that number of men in arms by the end of 1954.

The plan will cost more than 300 billion dollars, but the ministers attending the North Atlantic Treaty organization's ninth council session adopted it unanimously as an investment in security from Communist attack.

The master plan, in more formal terms is the report of the NATO Temporary Council Committee (TCC), headed by W. Averell Harriman of the United States.

It was adopted virtually without debate, and with little comment.

Its adoption leaves the NATO council with only two major problems to handle before the ministers leave for home Monday.

Payment Plan Not Set-Up

They have to agree on where, when and how to pay for the vast network of air fields, fighter bases, barracks, and communications that will support their armies, ranging all the way from the Bosphorus to the Arctic.

They also must reorganize NATO itself into a more efficient operating body.

These problems come up Monday. The ministers take a day off tomorrow, the eve of Lisbon's Mardi Gras. Most of them are expected to spend the day in backstage conferences so they can reach swift agreement on the closing day.

Informer officials reported the United States has decided to press in the interval for the removal of practically all the wraps remaining on West German war industries. There is opposition from the French and, to a lesser extent, from the British.

From Bonn came word that the occupation powers are sending to Lisbon a request from Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government for a slight reduction in the proposed 11¼ billion mark ($2,670,000,000) defense budget for West Germany. The figure, proposed by Harriman's group, was termed "politically unacceptable." The Germans previously had offered 10,880,000,000 marks ($2,570,000,000).

Many Compromises Made

The master plan is the result of months of compromise and argument between civil and military leaders of the alliance.

The generals told NATO what they had to have to make Europe saft from Communist aggresison. The NATO economists went over the books of each nation and told the generals they could have much less.

The ministers yielded at the last minute and wrote in one clause requested by the military men. This named the specific force requirements for 1952, leaving in a more vague phrasing the targets for 1953 and 1954.

Brannan Boils Over Attack By Hoover

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 23—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan tonight struck back at former President Herbert Hoover for criticizing the moral atmosphere of the administration.

Brannan said Hoover sat silent in the same cabinet with men involved in the Teapot Dome scandal but "now casts doubt on the moral fibre of public employees."

In a Washington speech on Monday, Hoover had spoken of "sickening conduct" on the part of some government officials.

Brannan, in a speech prepared for a Washington Day dinner at Municipal auditorium and for national broadcast (MBS, 8:30 p.m. CST) said this was "the same Herbert Hoover who sat in the cabinet of Warren Harding along with Albert Fall and Harry Daugherty and didn't utter a word."

Congress Lashes Brannan

Brannan, whose Agriculture Department has recetnly come under some fire in Congress, continued:

"Fall and Daugherty were the guilty parties in the Republican Teapot Dome scandals in which they profited to the tune of hundreds of thousands of dollars delivered in little black satchels.

"Yet only eight days after Fall's hasty resignation from the Interior department, this is what Hoover wrote him: 'In my recollection, that department has never had so constructive and legal a headship as you gave it. I trust the time will come when your private affairs will enable you to return to public life.'"

Brannan added: "This is the man who now casts doubt on the moral fiber of public employees."

Brannan said the GOP is raising a "blatant glamor" about allegations of corruption in government but, he said, "there's never been anything like a Teapot Dome scandal during a Democratic administration, and I'm convinced there never will be."

Integrity Higher Than Ever

"I'm firmly convinced that the level of morality and integrity among federal employes—notwithstanding the misdeeds of a few whose errors are being floodlighted every day—is higher than it has ever been before in our history," he said.

Brannan said the GOP, after having lost five consecutive presidential elections and all but one off-year election in a decade, now acknowledges that it can't win by discussing the basic issues.

"They're trying a new strategy," he continued. "It's the strategy of the towering distortion and the staggering falsehood, the strategy of doubt and confusion, and they're hoping by means of it to excite the gullible and emotional into believing that the sky is falling down.

"They want the public to think that the proportion of weak and venal people in government is greater than in the nation as a whole, and especially that it is greater than in the last Republican administration.

"Whom do they think they're kidding?"

The Poor Would Carry The Burden

Two Congress Groups Oppose Proposed Income-Tax Ceiling

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23 (AP)—Staffs of two congressional committees said today a proposed 25 per cent peacetime ceiling on federal income taxes would "tend to shift the individual tax burden from the rich to the poor."

Such a ceiling has been endorsed by a number of state legislatures.

The staffs of the Senate-House Economic Committee and the House Small Business Committee presented a series of arguments against the proposed ceiling in a report to the 25 members of the two groups. The committees have not acted on the staff findings.

Proponents of the ceiling contend that 28 states now have asked Congress to call a constitutional convention to act on such a tax limitation. The Virginia General Assembly acted this week. Congress must call such a convention if 32 states request it.

However, several states have taken action to rescind their resolutions. The whole matter is clouded with legal arguments. The congressional staff report said only 16 states have resolutions which appear to be in force now.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo), chairman of the Economic Committee, and Rep. Patman (D-Tex), head of the small business group, said the materials in the report "do not necessarily represent the views of the committees or of their individual members."

However, the two chairmen in forwarding the document to members said they wanted to "call your attention specifically to the summary and to the conslusions" of the staffs.

All of these conclusions were adverse to the proposal. The arguments of the staffs included:

1. Based on 1951 figures, the proposed constitutional amendment would cut federal revenues by 16 billion dollars a year, or more than 30 per cent of income, estate and gift tax revenues. All this loss could not be made up from present sources or from taxes not now used by the federal government. Partial recovery would mean "substantially heavier burdens" on low and moderate-income groups and might mean a federal sales tax.

2. The taxes reduced by the proposal—personal and corporation income levies and estate and gift taxes—"are generally regarded to be the fairest sources of federal tax revenue" because they are based on ability to pay. A four-member family with a one-million-dollar net income would get a $621,224 tax cut. A large corporation would save 52 per cent of its taxes. A 10-million-dollar estate left by a single person would pay $2,400,000 less taxes.

3. The limitation "would impose a serious hardship on the smaller business firms" because it "would tend to shift the corporate tax burden from the large to the small."

4. The amendment "would seriously impair the government's ability to finance essential expenditures." The ceiling could be suspended only in war time and thus "give inadequate recognition to the large defense requirements in an emergency short of war."

5. Defense expenditures and such fixed charges as interest on the national debt "place a practical floor below which federal spending cannot go." The result of the tax limitation would probably be borrowing to meet current expenses and an increased public debt.

6. If the limitation were in effect, income tax collections would not rise as much in booms and thus would not dampen inflation as present rates do.

7. If the amendment were adopted, many services "now demanded of government by taxpaying constituents would have to be supplied and financed at the state or local level even though this might be less efficient and more costly."

In summing up its arguments, the report said "the more forthright and effective taxpayer and citizen movement for lightening the tax load are properly focusing today upon government expenditures and government management rather than on methods of shifting the tax burden from their own shoulders to others."

Thieves Burglarize Waynesville Stores

WAYNESVILLE, Mo., Feb. 23—(AP)—Seven business places and the probate judge's office were burglarized last night, Sheriff Dorsey Rayl reported today.

A large amount of loot was taken from the Woodward jewelry store and the Best Army store, the sheriff said.

Other places which were trying to make an inventory of their losses were two service stations, a second army store, a film studio and a tavern. So far nothing was found missing from the probate judge's office.

The jewelry store and Best Army store reported the loss of 100 watches, 25 pearl necklaces, 150 rings and 30 or 40 watch bands. Fourteen watches, believed taken from the other army store, were found in an alley.

One of the service stations reported loss of $50 cash and cigarettes, the film studio $60 cash.

Sheriff Rayl said he had been receiving the loss reports all day and expected more later.

No arrests have been made.

India Riots Continue

CALCUTTA, India, Feb. 23 (AP)—Students and police clashed again today for the third straight day in Dacca, East Pakistan. Six students have died in the fighting so far. Three more injured today but there were no fatalities.

The students are demanding Bengali be made one of the state's official languages. Urdu, an old Moslem tongue, is Pakistan's national language but 40 million East Pakistanis speak Bengali.

Miss Sorrel a Noted Pianist

Symphony And Guest Artist In Varied Concert Monday Eve

The Sedalia Symphony orchestra will present its third concert of the season Monday night at Smith-Cotton auditorium, conducting and Claudette Sorel, pianist, as guest artist.

The orchestral program includes a delightful array of musical compositions which appeal to music lovers everywhere, among them perennial favorites such as the "Countess Maritza" light opera music and the "Peer Gynt Suite" by Grieg. The entire program follows:

Overture, "Russian and Ludmilla" by Glinka; Etude in B flat minor, Opus 104 No. 1 and Etude in A Minor, Opus 104 No. 3, by Mendelssohn; "Rush Hour in Hong Kong" by Chasins, Claudette Sorel; "Countess Maritza" selection by Emmerich Kalman; intermission.

"Peer Gynt Suite" by Grieg, including "Morning," "Ase's Death," "Anitra's Dance" and "In the Hall of the Mountain King"; Prelude in G. Minor, Opus 23 No. 5 by Rachmaninoff; "To a Water Lily" by MacDowell and "Caprice in A Minor" by Paganini-Liszt. Claudette Sorel; "Le Pere de la Victoire" by L. Ganne.

The guest artist, Claudette Sorel, has won more awards during her 20 years than perhaps any other artist of modern times: The coveted award of the National Federation of Music clubs was granted her the 18th of May, 1952; in 1944 she won the New York Philharmonic-Symphony young people's concerts competition entitling her to appear as soloist with this organization; a year later, she won the New York Little Symphony prize and in 1950 she was awarded the Philadelphia Orchestra youth contest and played with that group under the direction of Eugene Ormandy. Her latest award, in 1951, was the Fullbright scholarship entitling her to foreign study.

Miss Sorel is a native of France, coming to the United States with her parents when she was eight years old, beginning then her piano study with Sari Biro. Three years later she was awarded a special scholarship in the class of Olga Samaroff at the Juilliard School of Music, where she continued studying until 1948. When she graduated from the Juilliard school the simultaneously won two major prizes, the Frank Damrosch scholarship for post-graduate study and the Harry Rosenberg memorial prize.

Monday night, Miss Sorel will play a program which includes two Etudes by Mendelssohn, a novelty number, "Rush Hour in Hong Kong" by Chasine, and a group of three well-known numbers by Rachimaninoff, Mac-Dowell and Paganini-Liszt. It will be a rare musical treat for music lovers of Sedalia to hear Miss Sorel, of whom, "The Providence Journal" says: "Every little phrase seemed to say something of itself. No matter how fast her fingers flew over the keyboard, each note spoke its own bit."

Only Elizabeth Can Say What Philip's Job Is

LONDON, Feb. 23 — (AP) — A blond young athlete with a ready smile is settling down to the toughest job the British have to offer. And the British, although unsure what the job entails, are certain he's made the grade.

The man in Philip, 30-year-old Duke of Edinburgh. The job is consort to a reigning queen.

The British constitution has no place for a queen's husband. His role in state affairs must be largely unofficial. He doesn't know for sure where he is expected to stand at state functions. Even his title has prompted a lot of speculation.

Only his wife, Queen Elizabeth II, can sort out the answers to the questions the British public is asking. Philip's share in her great burden will be decided by her alone.

British commentators trying to forecast Philip's role have brought out the history books to see how Queen Victoria shared her job with Prince Albert. But history hasn't helped much.

Both Philip and Albert were foreign-born. Albert was a German and Philip a Greek. The similarity ends there.

Albert came to Britain a stranger, misunderstood and misunderstanding. He hardly spoke the language. Much of the nation—from members of parliament to the lowliest villager—mistrusted him. For years he was popularly believed to have been jailed in the tower of London on treason charges.

Only after his death did the British realize that Albert's wisdom in state councils had spurred the victorian age to prosperity, only then did they call him Albert the Good.

Philip came to his new job well-known and well-liked by the British people. He has the right background—a British upbringing, a first class record in the navy, a love of sport and a sense of humor that Albert lacked.

Newsreels and the press have made his smile familiar throughout the commonwealth. His share in Elizabeth's Canadian tour last year brought new warmth—and strength—to royalty's part in holding together the scattered British peoples.

Philip shines in the less formal royal tasks and the good-natured chit-chat accompanying the endless hand-shaking when Elizabeth is on parade. Newspaper readers here who followed last year's Canadian tour were amused by his lighter encounters.

He is a good dancer. Ava Gardned can testify to that. He can ditch royal protocol when he thinks necessary.

He has made himself a reputation as a serious thinker, too. Last August when he told the nation's scientists they would have to pioneer mass production on the American scale before Britain can regain the supremacy she had in victorian times, his learned audience and the newspaper commentators agreed he had said something that wanted saying and said it well.

Philip's public life now that his wife is queen is likely to follow the pattern of the last few years. He will be the good-humored shadow, ready to lend a quick hand when the queenly course gets tricky. He probably will take on more engagements singlehanded, letting his wife take time out to be with her family.

Behind the scenes Philip is likely to run the royal household and estates for his wife. If he does, palace sources say, he will probably shake up the costly routine of court life, little changed since Albert gave it a going over more than a cetnury ago.

The aim will be to save money. He will have a chance of making money by putting the royal farms on a hard cash basis. Much of the 419,000 pounds ($1,273,000) which the state paid King George annually went to keep up huge shooting moors in Scotland and Norfolk. These lands could bring cash into rayal coffers hard-pressed by rocketing wages and living costs.

Philip, not long ago a lowly navy junior officer, may soon find himself with top ranks in each of the armed services. This will let him take from the queen the onerous round of military ceremonies which King George handled.

Philip probably will help his wife by advising on state affairs but the limited political scope of the modern monarchy makes this job less important than it was for Albert. Nevertheless, he takes it seriously and is well versed in parliamentary and official protocol.

Philip's influence here will grow with the years. By his 50th birthday he will have far more experience of official life than most of the queen's ministers and court advisers.

Victoria was married to Albert 17 years before she gave him the title Prince Consort and so declared him first gentleman of the land. Public opposition would have made the move impossible before then.

Elizabeth is not likely to wait so long before making her husband's position clear. Most court officials expect Philip will be named Prince Consort before the coronation ceremony.

Some have suggested Elizabeth might go even further and devise some form by which Philip could be king in name if not with full constitutional power.

No precendent exists for this. Popular though Philip is, any such plan would be sure to start a great debate.

Amid all the current speculation some things are certain. Philip will set the pace for Britain in this new Elizabethan age. His lead can bring a new vigor into an old nation's struggle back to power.

His greatest influence will come when Elizabeth's reign is over. As father of the royal family Philip already is grooming three-year-old Prince Charles for kingship.

Soviets Say America Uses POWs In A-Tests

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet press said today Americans are using Chinese and Korean war prisoners for atomic bomb experiments.

The papers said the charges originated with the Chinese Communist organ, Jen Min Jih Pao in Peiping.

The Chinese Red paper also claimed Chinese prisoners are being used for bacteriological warfare experiments. It said a whole shipload of prisoners recently was taken away in a British ship for these purposes.

Atom Building Bomb for Evil Screw-worm

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—Atomic energy is helping to build up a bomb for the wicked screw-worm flies.

The plan is to sterlize male flies with x-rays from radioactive cobalt, then turn them loose to enter into sterile marriages with unsuspecting female flies.

Result, if things work right, will be a reduction or even a wiping out of the type of flies, which eat living flesh of cows and other animals.

The plan is related by R. C. Bushland, entomologist in charge of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's field laboratory, bureau of entomology and plant quarantine, at Kerrville, Tex. Bushland now is attending a course on use of radioactive atoms at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Female screw-worm flies lay their eggs in open wounds of any warm-blooded animal. Even a tick bite gives them a chance. One female's 200 eggs hatch into maggots which eat living flesh. One such brood can eat a hole the size of a lemon. Other flies come along and lay eggs and the animal often "is literally eaten alive," Bushland said.

Cowhands on Texas ranges seek out infected animals and treat their wounds. Agricultural officials figure the screw-worm flies cause up to 15 million dollars loss annually in that range region alone. In Florida, the worms are blamed for losses of five to 10 million dollars annually.

The screw-worm fly is mainly a southern pest but has caused summer outbreaks when infected animals were shipped as far north as New Jersey or South Dakota.

The female fly mates only once. If she lays sterile eggs, nothing happens — no maggots, no trouble, no future flies.

Although Portuguese law requires the people to wear shoes, many sometimes go barefoot in that country.

Spider web silk is stronger than that made by silkworms but it has never proved possible to produce it in commercial quantities.

Honor Plan Really Works At West Point

WEST POINT, N. Y., Feb. 23—(AP)—To many civilians, West Point is like an impressive cathedral which belongs to someone else.

They are awed by the ritual but puzzled by the faith.

At the academy, they are stirred by the parades but they are apt to wonder about the rigid honor system and the confining regimentation. Frankly, I shared these doubts when I came here for a story on the academy's 150th anniversary. Three days later, my skepticism was gone.

First of all, the honor system does work.

It is a way of life, real, dynamic and vital to the 2,400 cadets. It is not a plaything of boys pretending to be super-men. It is not a pretentious symbol of caste, like a scar won at Heidelberg.

True, the cadets are poured into a mold. They learn the same tactics. With the exception of a language, they study the same courses. They learn to march precisely alike. But they also learn to think independently.

These factors are even more important in the shaping of an officer than the tradition he absorbs in the old gray barracks, the pride he feels marching on the great plain, the sense of history he fets from knowing that Lee, Grant, Pershing, Eisenhower, MacArthur, Bradley and many others preceded him here.

The honor code, which is more than 100 years old, requires a cadet not to cheat, lie or steal. If he can't resist temptation, he has to get out. The code is run by the cadets, enforced by them, it can be changed by them. I couldn't find any one who wanted to change it.

I met my first cadets at dinner in the big mess hall. There were ten at our table. With the exception of one plebe, who was silenced by tradition, all the cadets began firing their opinions of last summer's cribbing scandal at me. They brought it up, I didn't.

"What burned us up," said one, "was that so many people wanted leniency for the 90 kicked out. We didn't. We took it for granted they had to get out. It hurt to watch some of our best friends leave."

"We meant it," said another, "when we said that the whole corps of 2,400 would resign if the 90 were reinstated. This is terribly important to us. We don't cheat. We expect the next guy not to. That's how we get along."

This was said, not as a boast but as a simple statement of fact.

"Look," said still another cadet, "when I first came here, I thought the honor system was a big crock. In high school, I lied as often as anybody, I guess. I don't here. I won't later. I feel bigger and better for it."

Later, in the privacy of his own room, this boy explained that being trusted gave him confidence, self-respect, poise. "At first," he said, "I just felt flattered. Then I began to feel more capable in everything I tried."

The honor system works in many ways.

In a classroom, it permits a cadet to correct his own test paper as the instructor reads off the answers.

A guard making an evening inspection simply sticks his head into a cadet's room and asks, "all right, sir?"

"All right, sir," the cadet answers and by that he means a whole multitude of things—that he is where he's supposed to be, that he has no liquor in the room, that there are no unauthorized people present.

"As often as I've heard and said it," reported a senior, or first class cadet, "I still get a bang out of that 'all right.'"

Under these circumstances, it would be comparatively easy to cheat, lie or steal (for no cadet rooms are locked). The great majority doesn't. Last summer's trouble was the exception which nobody around here is able to explain fully.

"Ordinarily, we only get nine or ten dismissions for honor every year," said cadet Sgtthomas Collier of Washington, D. C., chairman of the 24-man honor committee.

The committee investigates all heports of honor violations. It hears witnesses, checks to determine whether the complainant has a personal grudge and sifts all the evidence. The committee then judges a cadet's guilt or innocence and its findings are passed on to a review board of officers. Collider said the review board usually follows the committee's recommendations.

"Lying or cheating on anything official," he said, "usually means outright dismissal. Lying about personal things may bring only a warning. Like when a guy is just popping off about something unimportant. But even then it can be darned serious."

He told this story:

A cadet bought a camera. He happened to tell one of his two roommates he paid $20 for it. For the next few days, the discussion in the room mostly centered about the camera. After testing it thoroughly, everyone agreed it was a dud.

The cadet who bought it said in an off-hand way, purely to save face, "well, I only paid $10 for it."

The next morning he was turned in to the honor committee by one of his roommates.

"Half of the committee," reported Collier, "wanted him dismissed. The other half wasn't so sure and because all findings must be unanimous he was let off with a stern warning.

Hal Boyle's Column—

Now He Wonders If Junior Executives Really Exist

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — What is a junior executive?

You hear more and more about this character. But he seems to me a pretty mysterious and will-'o-the-wisp fellow and I am not sure he really exists at all. I am beginning to think he is just a figment of somebody's imagination.

No one can tell me for sure what a junior executive really is, because nobody ever seems to have met one in the flesh.

Go up to anyone you know who works in an office for a living and ask: "Are you a junior executive?" He may flush with embarrassed pleasure or turn upon you in cold anger but he is certain to answer: "Who, me? Of course not."

Everybody has heard of junior executives but nobody will admit he is one. That's why I don't think there really are any.

Opinion varies as to just what a junior executive is. Some people think of him as a fine clean modest alert young man who has climbed the first rung of the ladder of success. Others see him as merely a young stuffed shirt, a petty office tyrant who tries to get ahead by aping the real executives.

That's part of the mystery of the junior executive — he's anything you want to believe he is: a would-be boss in rompers, or industry's new type Horatio Alger. And nobody seems to know for sure just what his job is except to sit around and wait for the senior executive to drop dead.

The clearest picture of these new toy tycoons of the business world is given in the magazine ads. You see two fine old senior executives seated at a desk in the background. One says, "I've got Bill there in mind for a top management job. He came to me and suggested, 'Let's switch to using blotto typewriter ribbons.' Well, I did as he suggested and that's why our business tripled last month. Keep your eye on Bill."

This romantic vision of the junior executive as a bright young man with simple, but overwhelmingly successful ideas is becoming more and more popular. Clothing is being designed to "give that junior executive look." Banks are pleading: "Are you the junior executive type? Borrow from us — anything from $50 to $100, more or less, payable back in two lifetimes." Even motor car models are now "styled for the junior executive."

Before long girls' finishing schools are going to join the trend and give courses such as "the junior executive's wife: her role in the community."

As I see it, however, this present legend will someday become a reality. Sooner or later there will be created an actual live junior executive.

And I predict he will meet disaster by trying to live up to the rosy legend. It will happen like this:

He will marry an expensive junior executive wife, make a $5,000 junior executive bank loan, and with it buy a junior executive suit and put up the down payments on a junior executive type house and a junior executive model car.

Unable to live on a junior executive salary, he will go up to his boss and say: "Why don't we switch to blotto typewriter ribbons? It'll triple business."

Well, the boss will switch to blotto typewriter ribbons and in three weeks the firm will be bankrupt, because nobody really can read letters written with blotto typewriter ribbons.

The junior executive will be tossed out of his swivel chair, and he will lose his wife, his home and his car, and be forced to pawn his suit.

That's the danger of being a real-life junior executive. One lousy idea — and you're just the man in the street again.

Railroads May Spend Over $2 Billion For Locomotives and Cars

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's railroads may spend $2,180,000,000 in the next two years forfreight cars and locomotives if earnings permit and materials are available, says an industry spokesman.

William T. Faricy, president of the Association of American Railroads, told the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) yesterday 200,000 new freight cars and 3,465 locomotives will be needed.

Faricy testified on behalf of the railroads' request for a full 15 per cent freight rate increase. They have called inadequate ICC freight rate increases of 9 per cent in the East and 6 per cent in the South and West, granted last August.

Community Plays At Beaman Monday

Two community plays will be presented at the community hall in Beaman at 7:30 p. m. Monday, Feb. 25. These plays will be judged and the best one will be presented at the community play contest held at Smith-Cotton high school March 4, 5, and 6.

The play entitled "Foxy Grandma" is directed by Mrs. John Rush. The cast includes Carol Wood, Gale Fletcher, Dean and Carl Holman, Glenda Blaylock, George Showalter, and Jackie Birdsong.

"Borrowin' Neighbors" is directed by Mrs. Frank Summers. The cast is composed of Mrs. E. L. Birdsong, Mrs. Jack Kellerman, Mrs. Roy Spears, Mrs. Riley Lee and Mrs. Bud Lee.

Telephone Co. Doubles Staff At La Monte

In an effort to further improve telephone service at La Monte, Southwestern Bell Telephone company is doubling the number of operators there, Z. Lyle Brown, telephone company district manager at Sedalia, said today.

The increase in staff follows a move made recently in which Southwestern Bell took over operations of the La Monte exchange as part of telephone facilities expansion to serve the Sedalia Air Force Base.

Brown said that Mrs. Valetta Wharton will continue to serve as agency chief operator at La Monte. Mrs. Wharton is a native of La Monte and has served as agency chief operator since 1948.

New additions to the operating force are Mrs. Etta Harding, Miss Nellie Bowers and Miss Mildred Kindle. One of these operators will replace Mrs. O. B. Patton, who recently resigned.

Bsides an increase in the number of operators, Southwestern Bell also plans to rebuild and modernize the exchange as soon as necessary material for work can be obtained, Brown said. This will depend upon government allocations of scarce supplies.

The La Monte telephone exchange transfer to Southwestern Bell was approved this month by the Missouri Public Service commission when it became evident the re-activated Sedalia Air Force base would require an extensive telephone system.

Indonesia Ready To Ship Tin to US

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indonesia was reported today ready to resume tin shipments to this country at the U. S. asking price of $1.21½ cents a pound with the possibility of a higher price after this year.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC), buyer of all tin for this country, halted Indonesian purchases when prices shot up last March.

The U. S. position was that Indonesian tin could not be higher than the price paid for British tin under a contract that expires this year. The U. S. pays Britain $1.18 a pound F. O. B. Singapore, which means $1.21½ New York.

The Indonesians are hoping for a contract beyond this year calling for a price hike when the British contract expires.

Although U. S. population grew 60 million between 1910 and today, the farm population dropped from 32 to 24 million.

Girl Scouts Enjoy Service Given Others

The Girl Scout organization offers American girls a fine program for service, fun and good training.

The following activities of the Girl Scouts in Sedalia for this past week show how they are using their program.

Troop 7 Enjoys Skit

Troop 7 of Whittier school met Wednesday and the meeting was opened by patrol 1 presenting a short skit. Marilyn Schwerman, as an old fashioned school teacher, had a most exciting time with her unruly students, Irene Shipley, Peggy Brock, April Burton, Elaine Kettle and Doris Carpenter. Patrol 2, endeavoring to earn second class badges, acted as hostesses and served refreshments.

A Valentine box for the troop was made by DeAnne Blaylock, assisted by her mother. The meeting was closed with the singing of "White Coral Bells." Patrol 2 members are Maryln Adams, Charlotte Lewis, Augusta Burlingame, DeAnne Blaylock, Dorothy Goode, Marjorie McKinny, Sara Wells, Louise Holloway, Joyce LeBegue, Roberta Janssen, Mary Francis Davis and Sandra Goodpasture. The leaders are Mrs. John Bowman, Mrs. F. A. Schutte and Mrs. John Smethers.

Make Favors for Hospital

The following troops made tray favors for the hospitals:

Brownie Troop 61, St. Patrick's school, Mrs. Fred Scott and Mrs. Marcella Hein, leaders.

Brownie Troop 69, Jefferson school, Mrs. Lindsay Hayden and Mrs. Frances Nelson, leaders.

Intermediate Troop 60, Washington school, Mrs. Herbert Winebrenner and Mrs. F. E. Wallace, leaders.

Intermediate Troop 31, Broadway school, Mrs. Pete Cairns, leader.

Have Valentine Party

Intermediate Girl Scout Troop 63 of Mark Twain, entertained at a Valentine party at the home of their leader, Mrs. Albert Newland. Games were played with prizes going to Dorothy Siegel, Glenda Sue Reed, Priscilla Scott, Marilyn Twinner and Annetta Schupbach. Individual heart shape nut cups were presented to the 15 girls present. Mrs. Newland was assisted by the co-leader, Mrs. Harold G. Shelley.

Serve Own Party

Brownie Troop 25 of Horace Mann school, with Mrs. Sam Knapp and Mrs. Byron Oswald as leaders, had a Valentine party. The troop divided into two patrols, one patrol made the cocoa and served it while the other set the table.

These third grade Brownies, being real Brownies, washed the dishes and insisted that the job was fun and wanted no help from the leaders. They also made favors for the Melita Day Nursery.

Give To Polio Fund

Troop 60 of Washington school, Mrs. Herbert Winebrenner and Mrs. F. E. Wallace leaders, has voted to give $5 from the troop funds to the March of Dimes. She lives on a farm and they write her telling of their activities.

Charge Nation Pays High Fee For Air Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Hunt (D-Wyo) said today the United States "is paying through the nose" for a "lot of mistakes" on a multi-million dollar program of overseas airbases.

Hunt is chairman of a Senate defense investigating subcommittee digging into charges of waste and extravagance in construction of the secret air bases in North Africa and in Greenland near the North Pole.

"We hope these public hearings will make military and civilian leaders more alert and on their toes in the future," Hunt said.

Public hearings are suspended until late next week to allow attorneys and investigators to cull through a number of critical reports by experts on the overseas projects, only partially complete now.

Hunt said testimony so far indicates that the Greenland base, near the North Pole and known by the code name of "Blue Jay," had cost more than 100 million dollars and still is not completed.

"We are told that Blue Jay is in good shape and now operating," Hunt said.

Senators learned that several thousand workers were recruited at "premium pay" for this far north airbase, where workers drew from $3 to $8 an hour for the first 40 hours weekly, and then time and a half up to 70 and 80 hours a week.

More than three million dollars went to workers while aboard ship before they even reached the site.

Hunt said the watchdog group also expects to pry deeper into protests that French officials in Morocco, site of the North African bases, are insisting upon taxing U. S. materials and equipment shipped in for the jobs.

Assistant Secretary of the Air Force Edwin V. Huggins testified that eventually all the air base construction will be handed over to the French, although the United States is paying all construction costs.

It is U. S. policy not to own foreign real estate on which the bases are being constructed, he said.

Brig. Gen. J. C. Hardin, of the Army Engineers who are handling the airbase construction through private contractors, said he had protested to the governor of Morocco, appointed by the French, against efforts to tax U. S. supplies and equipment.

Hardin said the tax disputes now are being negotiated in Paris, presumably by State Department spokesmen.

The Senate committee was told that some $200,000 in French taxes had been paid in North Africa for the joint defense jobs, chiefly on gasoline and other equipment needed in a hurry to avoid more delays.

Chairman Hunt said the U. S. Joint Chiefs of Staff put an urgent tag on the African bases shortly after the Communist invasion in Korea in June, 1950.

"Apparently the military leaders feared that Russia might jump into Europe, the Middle East or Africa as the Communists did in Korea," the senator said.

Lt. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of Army Engineers, testified the Air Force kept this urgent tag on the African bases from late 1950 until December of last year, or six months after the first two bases were partially complete.

Pick disputed statements by Downey Rice, special attorney for the committee, that the original cost of six African bases estimated at 300 million dollars eventually may run as high as 420 millions.

Rice said reports by experts indicated the huge cost resulted from "delays, false starts, confusion and some waste."

The veteran general flushed with anger when Rice asked what steps the Engineer Corps had taken to end waste and corruption on the African projects.

"We assume Americans are honest until we find they are not honest," Gen. Pick said tartly.

Needed---More Engineers And More Scientists

Edison Foundation Head Says Shortage Slows Down America's Forward Stride

WANTED—MORE LIKE HIM: This 17-year-old high school student, Robert E. Simpson, of Kenmore, N. Y., won a front-rank place among America's young scientists last year with the atom-smashing cyclotron he's shown building here. But there's a shortage of up-and-coming young scientists like him.

By Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen, USN (Ret.)—Executive Director, Thomas Alva Edison Foundation
(Written for NEA Service)

WEST ORANGE, N. J.—(NEA)—Every once in so often reality rears its ugly head, and we are confronted by an emergency and are compelled to do something about it in a hurry.

That is typical of democracies; they act only under dire compulsion when they are right under the guns. The latest national emergency is the shortage of engineers and scientists.

All of us Americans are fed up with being reminded that we have more telephones, more refrigerators, more automobiles and more what-not by far than any other people ever had before.

So what? Why should we be worried about the future and the shortage of engineers and scientists? We are comfortable and happy with what we have, aren't we? What difference does it make if all the young people go in for culture and the liberal arts and shun science and engineering?

* * *

What has culture and the overhead, liberal arts—things that are supported by national wealth—got to do with scientists and engineers anyhow?

Well, they have a lot to do with scientists and engineers, who create the necessary wealth to make culture possible.

In this country, we have created a new type of industry. It is an American invention and a world phenomenon. It is competitive industry, supported by patent law, industrial research, mass marketing and mass production. It represents a new development of capitalism, and its like cannot be found anywhere, not even in Western Europe.

In Europe, industry fixes prices, and this results in high prices, standardized merchandise, little progress—if any—in development of new things to sell to more customers, and a shortage of American dollars.

* * *

That being so, where do we go from here?

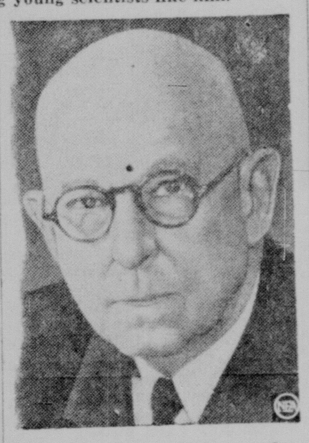
Well, there is only one way to go from here. We need, in this country, more and more engineers and scientists because they are the fuel which feeds the fires of industry. We can't maintain, let alone accelerate, our present national stride without more and better industry.

Now the bright boys have been telling us for a long time that Europe, particularly England, has been producing all the basic research and we have, in contradiction, lain down on the job.

How is it then that somehow or other we have all the dollars that those Europeans need to support their culture, their overhead arts, not to mention keeping the Russians out?

Of course, that's the big joke. Young United States, without any culture to speak of, any marked Nobel-type proficiency in the overhead arts or basic science, went to work and did fairly well in spite of this admitted disadvantage.



VICE ADM. BOWEN, who wrote this dispatch on the nation's need for more engineers and scientists, has been in engineering most of his career since he graduated from Annapolis in 1905. He was Chief of the Navy's Bureau of Engineering and later headed the Office of Research and Inventions before he retired in 1947. He holds many awards for his research work. The Edison Foundation which he now directs is a non-profit organization whose objective is to encourage new research, uncover new talent, and create more interest among students in the science and engineering fields.

* * *

A remarkable breed—Edison, Westinghouse, Ford, Goodyear, Firestone, McCormick, among others, began making things so cheap that everyone could buy something.

The more the common people like you and me bought, the more profits justified increase in wages, the more prices were reduced, and so you and I became the millions of Americans who are the support of our mass-produced, competitives economy.

Unqualified success never existed anywhere, and it doesn't in our case.

As our national wealth increased, a lot of people living on the overhead got a lot of queer ideas. They wanted to make an objective out of an instrument.

* * *

So the little red schoolhouse, which had made America great, was wheeled into the background. Education was geared to "group adjustment," which is another way of saying that "if you are satisfied with yourself and adjusted to your group—period." Anyhow, group adjustment isn't producing enough engineers and scientists.

A sign of the times is the fact that the number of engineers has steadily increased per 100 employes.

Engineers in industry have now invaded many positions of management and marketing. If an engineer's slide rule gets rusty, he still has a chance to be a manager of a president.

Perhaps we had better heave an anchor to windward and seriously try to increase the number of all our scientists, basic or applied, lest we suffer from a dearth of new knowledge.

Since we are faced with both an immediate and a long-range shortage of engineers and scientists, and since the demand for engineers, relatively and absolutely, has steadily increased over the years, perhaps it is time to treat this whole subject as a national problem of first importance.

All of us must interest more high-school students in taking courses in subjects required for an education in engineering and science. That is the crux of the whole situation.

Industry is a huge creator of national wealth. It provides food and raiment for an immense part of our people. It will be suicidal not to supply it with adequate numbers of trained and educated scientists and engineers.

Civilization follows national wealth.

B of RT to Oppose Bid of Senator Taft

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—President W. P. Kennedy of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen says his union will oppose Sen. Robert A. Taft's bid for the Republican presidential nomination.

The Cleveland, O., union leader told Brotherhood members from Texas, Arizona, and New Mexico yesterday that the Ohio senator "represents a chosen few."

Social Security Covers Those Self Employed

Do you work for yourself in your own grocery store, meat market, hardware store, filling station, shoe repair shop—or any one of many types of business? If you do, you have had coverage under Social Security since Jan. 1, 1951 according to Scott Webber of the Sedalia Social Security offices.

You must report your net earnings from your self-employment. This is not a matter of choice. You must do this when you file your personal income tax some time after January 1st and by March 15th. You will pay 2¼% on your net income from self-employment if you earn as much as $400, but you will not pay this tax on any amount over $3600.

This means that when you file your personal income tax return you will have to pay 2¼ of your net earnings REGARDLESS of what your income tax will be. There are no exemptions from the Social Security tax because you have a wife or children. For example: If your net earnings for the year were:

$ 400—You will pay—$ 9.00
1000—You will pay— 22.50
2000—You will pay— 45.00
3000—You will pay— 67.50
3600—You will pay— 81.00

Since the Social Security tax must be paid at one time, it will be well to be prepared to have available a sum ranging from $9 to $81, depending on your net income.

When you do file, you will be required to put your Social Security number on your tax return so that you will be properly credited with your earnings. If you had a number before, be sure that you use that one. If you never had a number, you should get one as soon as possible. This is what you can do to get a number, and avoid that last minute rush. Fill out an application for a social security number at your local post office and send it to the Sedalia Office. A social security card will be mailed to you. If you would like to apply for your Social Security card in person, or would like more information regarding your Social Security, you may call or visit the Social Security office, 511 South Ohio, Sedalia.

May Crown Elizabeth During Tourist Season

LONDON (AP)—Plans to crown Queen Elizabeth in late August or early September—time to lure an extra million tourist dollars this season—are being considered by the British court, the Daily Express said today.

The paper said the Queen is expected to decide on a date within three weeks. If the coronation is in 1952, she will be the first British monarch in two centuries to hurry through the formal pageantry in the same year of coming to the throne.

The weather on earth is affected by "sunspots," which have been described as great storms on the surface of the sun.

In these, as well as the Red Cross, and other social life of the community, Mrs. Griffin became beloved by all with whom she came in contact. Despite illness in recent years, she was never complaining and cheerfully insisted upon conducting an active life.

New Ace Kills His 5th MIG Over Korea

SEOUL, Sunday, Feb. 24—(AP)—Swift U. S. Sabres Saturday destroyed one MIG-15 and damaged two more in an air battle over northwest Korea that produced a new jet ace.

Credited for the kill went to Maj. William T. Whisner, Shreveport, La., who was an ace in World War II and now finds himself an ace in the Korean War with five and one-half MIGs.

Whisner's plane flashed in and shot down a MIG that was about to knock out another Sabre in a thrilling dog fight between 35 U. S. and 40 Communist jets.

While the air battle raged, Air Force and Marine warplanes struck hard at Communist positions close behind the front. Pilots estimated they destroyed 61 troop and supply shelters and 12 bunkers.

Marine planes buzzed what they thought was a snow field on the central front. They found the "snow" actually was a field of Communist troops in winter camouflaged uniforms. When the "snow fields" began running, Marine planes opened up and killed 50 enemy soldiers.

The quiet along the battlefront was broken in the east by an heavy Communist barrage of mortar and artillery fire. Front line officers said the fire was unusually heavy but it did not appear to be the prelude to a Communist offensive.

The Fifth Air Force reported ten MIGs were destroyed, one probably destroyed and nine damaged in seven days of air battles ending Friday. In the same period the Fifth lost ten planes but none in air combat.

In Tokyo, the Far East Air Forces Saturday estimated its total combat losses of the Korean war at 531, which with non-combat losses brings the FEAF's over-all total losses to 1,100 planes.

Lee Feaster Dies Saturday In Kansas City

Robert Lee Feaster, Pettis County deputy sheriff, died at the Research hospital in Kansas City at 3:15 p. m. Saturday. He had been in failing health for several months.

Mr. Feaster was born in Henry county, about a mile from Clinton, on Jan. 12, 1884, the son of the late J. W. and Mary Ann Feaster.

He was married to Miss Helen Ferguson, Windsor, at Windsor on February 14, 1904. They lived in the vicinity of Windsor and in Pettis county near Green Ridge, where the Feasters had a large farm.

Mr. Feaster became a well-known farmer and stockman of Pettis county and remained on the farm until three years ago last January, when with Mrs. Feaster, he moved to Sedalia to accept the appointment as a deputy sheriff under Sheriff John F. Taylor.

Lee Feaster

Up until a few weeks ago he was active in the work of the sheriff's department, although his health had been failing for the past three months. He recently was in the Bothwell hospital suffering from a virus pneumonia, but was able to go to his home about two weeks ago. On Saturday Feb. 16 he went to Kansas City and entered the Research hospital for observation and treatment, after his condition became worse last Tuesday. He received several blood transfusions, but was unable to rally.

Mr. Feaster was a lifelong Democrat, and in 1948 ran for Judge of the Western District of the County court.

Surviving are his widow of the family home, 1813 East Ninth, six children, Virgil Feaster, Kansas City, Waldo Feaster, Clinton, Chester and Homer Feaster of Windsor, Mrs. Herbert Park, Holden, and Miss Louise Feaster of Wichita, Kas. Six grandchildren also survive, as do two brothers Rafe Feaster of Clinton and Ferdinand Feaster of Claffin, Kas., and a sister Mrs. Jesse Gritts, Muskogee, Okla.

Preceeding him in death besides his parents were a daughter and son, and two brothers and a sister.

The body was taken to the Huston-Turner funeral home at Windsor. Funeral services are to be held Tuesday, the exact time and other funeral arrangements to be decided upon as soon as word is received from relatives.

US Opens Free Trade In Natural Rubber

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The U. S. government today restored free trading in natural rubber after 14 months of exercising exclusive authority to import the vital defense commodity.

Federal controls on the use of rubber will continue.

The general services administration announced the government is surrendering its sole procurement authority immediately because the nation's stockpile has reached safe levels and the world market price has dropped.

It took over this authority Dec. 29, 1950 because stocks were short and the world price was too high.

"I am happy to report that we have arrived at the point for which we aimed 14 months ago," said GSA Administrator Jess Larson. He expressed his appreciation to the rubber industry and trade for cooperating in the program.

When the government took over, rubber was selling in the world market at around 80 cents a pound. It now is bringing about 38 cents.

The government action, together with increased American production of synthetic rubber, were said to be the chief factors in the price drop.

Attlee States Churchill Talk Encourages War

LONDON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Clement Attlee declared today Prime Minister Churchill, in his speech to Congress last month, encouraged "dangerous elements" in the United States who favor extending the Korean conflict into a general war with Red China.

The Laborite former Prime Minister said these American elements advocate "support of the corrupt and reactionary forces of Chiang Kai-Shek."

Attlee made his accusation in a radia address which ended a British political truce in effect since the death of King George VI. His speech set the stage for renewal ofthe bitter Labor attack on the Conservative government's Far East policy in a foreign affairs debate next week in the House of Commons.

The Labor opposition has repeatedly attacked Churchill for what they regard as his concessions to American policy in the Far East. In his address before Congress, Churchill approved American neutralization of Formosa, although he stood by the earlier recognition by Attlee's Labor government of the Peiping regime.

Attlee declared that, aside from humanitarian considerations and despite Chinese Communist provocation, there are two good reasons for limiting the war in Korea:

"First, because it would be foolish for the Western Powers to get heavily engaged in a war in Asia. And, secondly, because any general attack on China by the Western Powers would raise Nationalist feeling in the Chinese through the East, and also Asiatic feeling."

Defend Giving Steel Priority To Oil Firms

By Charles Haslet

WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials of the Petroleum Administration for Defense (PAD) go before a House small business subcommittee Wednesday and Thursday to defend their allocations of steel pipe to oil producers.

The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Burton (D-Va), has announced it will seek answers to three questions:

1. Whether the PAD and the oil industry are obtaining a fair allotment of steel from the Defense production Administration (DPA)

2. Whether the PAD is making proper allotments of the steel made available to it by DPA as between classes of operators.

3. Whether PAD is making a proper distribution of the steel between individual producers.

The committee, aides said, had received some complaints from small and independent producers about the allocations.

Chairman Patman (D-Tex) of the full small business committee asked Secretary of Interior Chapman, PAD administrator, while Congress was in recess last fall, to provide figures on allocations of steel, drilling programs, inventories and other information.

Most of this information has been supplied to the committee, an aide said.

Al Frame, a deputy PAD administrator, one of the agency officials who will testify, is expected to take the position that PAD has been operating in a goldfish bowl, that it has attempted to distribute available steel as fairly as possible.

Others expected to appear with Frame from PAD include Robert L. Foree, director of the production division; Don Teis, assistant director of that division and Elmer Batzell, General counsel.

The functions of the Interior Department's military petroleum advisory board have been transferred to PAD by an order of Secretary of the Interior Chapman.

Chapman then announced creation of two industry advisory committees to aid the PAD refining division in carrying out certain responsibilities transferred to the agency.

C. E. Davis heads a 24-member general advisory committee on military fuels and Maurice F. Granville a 17-member technical advisory committee.

Plugs For Tax Loopholes Get Top Priority

WASHINGTON (AP)—Plugs for recently-disclosed tax loopholes will be considered soon by two committees of Congress, Sen. George (D-Ga) said today.

"There seems to have been some pretty loose handling of certain matters," George told a reporter.

Specifically, he added, there appeared to be "some laxity"—and tighter rules indicated—in granting former employes of the Internal Revenue Bureau special permission to act as counsel for tax-troubled companies.

George said action will be taken by the Senate Finance Committee, which he heads, and the House Ways and Means Committee, which writes tax laws.

Two investigating senators, Nixon (R-Calif) and Mundt (R-SD), described tax loopholes as "glaring." Unless these are plugged, they said in separate statements, their investigations subcommittee's inquiry into a profitable surplus ship deal "will be a failure."

The subcommittee is headed by Sen. Hoey (D-NC), also a member of the Finance Committee, who has voiced a similar view.

sure he has in mind is that involving Joseph D. Nunan, former internal revenue commissioner. The revenue bureau, records show, issued Nunan's law firm special permits to represent 102 clients whose tax cases had been pending when he left his federal job in 1947.

Sen. Butler (R-Neb) called for an outright ban on such waivers. He demanded that no exceptions be made in the present law which prevents, for at least two years, any person from representing a client before the government agency for which he had worked.

Sen. Williams (R-Del), in a Senate speech Thursday, questioned the propriety of waiver grants. He contended "not a dime" has been collected on long-standing tax claims totaling two million dollars in cases of four of Nunan's clients. He said the cases failed to show up in Justice Department hands for criminal action, as recommended by revenue agents.

In hearings on the ship deal, Joseph E. Casey told Sen. Hoey's subcommittee a group he headed made a 3¼ million dollar profit on a $101,000 cash investment in war surplus oil tankers.

In the transaction, Casey testified, his group organized a Panamanian corporation which was not subject to U. S. taxes.

Mundt said he believes the evidence shows tax laws should be changed to (1) restrict incorporation of foreign subsidiaries of U. S. corporations, and (2) "prevent foreign nationals from exploiting government."

HOW TO FLOOR A SWIMMING POOL—These carpenters at Natick, Mass., are building a floor atop the ice on None Such Pond—and they're not as mad as you might think. The plan is this: They'll load the wooden floor with sand and when the ice thaws (they hope) boards and sand will sink neatly to the bottom of the pool, thus giving next summer's bathers a smooth, sandy bottom in place of the treacherous mud that has made swimming hazardous.

JEEP: CLASS OF '52—The famed jeep of World War II has had its face lifted—to make room for a 20 per cent more powerful engine—and has undergone other improvements that should endear it to the "new Army." More padding (a-a-ah!) has been built into its upholstery, and side-curtains seal the new jeep up tight. The twin "schnorkel" tubes, for air intake and exhaust, together with waterproofed engine and electrical system, enable some models to run completely submerged in salt or fresh water.

Spillane Will Quit Sex and Murder, Start Preaching About God

NEWBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—Mystery author Mickey Spillane says he will write no more about slayings and sex, but will devote himself to "preaching the establishment of the kingdom of God."

The popular author said yesterday he has "become one of Jehovah's Witnesses" and that any writing he does from now on will be in line with these beliefs.

Spillane, who lives near here with his family, is the author of such fast-moving books as "I, the Jury," "My Gun Is Quick" and "The Big Kill."

Jehovah's Witnesses is a group opposed to "graven imagines." Its members insist their loyalty is to God, not to state; and there have been court battles over their refusal to salute the flag or to permit their children to do so.

RI Students Pleased With Tour of Iron Curtain Near Embassy

NEW YORK—(AP)—A group of Rhode Island high school students came through here today pleased over simply walking through the "Iron Curtain" around the Soviet embassy in Washington.

Visitors are not encouraged at the embassy but a dozen Rhode Island students rang the bell yesterday and got literature, a conducted tour of the establishment and charm by the bucketful.

"They were quite gracious," Charles A. Donlon, Woonsocket principal who led the group, reported.

"The most impressive thing was a floor-to-ceiling oil painting of Stalin in a big ballroom upstairs. It was over 15 feet high, probably 20. There was one of Lenin, too, the same size.

"They didn't talk much and I asked them the purpose of the embassy. One man replied it was just like other embassies in Washington, adding: 'We are here for the protection of the Russian people.'

"We came downstairs and shook hands all around and walked out."

Dulles Says Soviet Reds Winning Battle Of Ideas In World

PRINCETON, N. J. (AP)—A driving ideological attack by Soviet Communism is winning over the free world in the battle of ideas, John Foster Dulles says.

Dulles told 1,000 Princeton University alumni last night that "the Communism of Soviet Russia and its satellites represents today the active dynamic element and the free world represents the static, passive element.

"The dynamic usually prevails over the static, the active over the passive."

Almost no part of Russia's expansion has been due to the old fashioned method of open military expansion, Dulles, State Department advisor, said.

"There are passions that cannot be allayed by oil royalties or suppressed by foreign guns," he declared.

Huge sums for armaments and foreign aid will not avail if the United States and the free world fails to shift toward a positive rather than a defensive attitude, Dulles asserted. He said prospects of the total international situation are not encouraging from the standpoint of the free world because any suggestion of a positive attitude evokes cries of alarm.

Dulles pointed to the Communists' emphasis on social ideas, theories, political views and institutions as demonstrations of how they concentrate on the non material elements of foreign policy. The West, on the other hand, he said, stresses the material aspects to the exclusion of the ideological.

Hearing Monday on Accepting Burton Bid for Fleming Land

On Saturday morning the Third National bank, as trustee of the estate of Thomas R. Fleming, deceased, filed a report of the offer of Everett Burton and wife to purchase the 185.40 acres of land belonging to said estate for the sum of $25,150.

The bank offered the land at a public auction held at the old Fleming home on North Highway 65 last Tuesday afternoon. Various tracts were offered separately and then all the land as a whole, and the best bid was made by Everett Burton and his wife. Under the offer made by Burton, it is to be accepted or rejected by the bank as trustee, and the circuit court, which has jurisdiction of trust estates, not later than 5 p.m. Monday, Feb. 25.

The court made an order Saturday fixing 2 p.m. Monday in the circuit court room as the time and place for hearing any additional offers which maye be made, and to then accept or reject the bid made by Mr. and Mrs. Burton.

The will of the late Thomas R. Fleming, who died Jan. 10, 1936, gave his land to his late sisters, Julia McCarthy and Kate A. Fleming, during their lifetime. They are both now deceased and the will directed that the Third National Bank as trustee would sell the land following their death and pay over $1,000 of the proceeds of the sale to a relative, John R. Moran of Louisville, Ky., and divide the remaining net residue in equal shares between St. Joseph Orphan Girls Home and and the Kansas City Boys Orphans Home, Catholic institutions in Kansas City.

It is anticipated that unless a substantial cash offer for the lands, in excess of that made by Mr. Burton, is offered to the bank and the court prior to or at the hearing next Monday afternoon, that the offer of Mr. Burton will be accepted.

Special guests of the evening were his son, Leonard Kroenke and Mrs. Kroenke, his daughter, Mrs. George Trader and Mr. Trader.

Rosilea Stark Given Shower

Miss Rosilea Stark, bride-to-be, was the recipient of a lovely prenuptial shower held at the home of Mrs. Ethel Sims and Miss Ruth Hamlin, Green Ridge, Feb. 15.

The home was attractively decorated with red and white carnations, in keeping with Valentine Day. A large silver heart with a red and white carnation flower arrangement was the center of attraction on the mantel. The home was decorated throughout with potted plants.

Games appropriate to Valentine Day made the evening pass all too quickly.

A large, old fashioned valentine box decorated in white with a large heart, saying "Rosilea and Byron" was pulled into the living room by little Charlene Wisdom and Judy Kay Ray. After an appropriate presentation speech by Miss Ruth Hamlin, Rosilea opened the valentine box and found an exquisite array of lovely gifts from her friends.

Refreshments carrying out the motif and colors of valentine were served from the lace-covered table in the dining room which was centered with red and white carnations in a silver bowl. Coffee was served from an heirloom silver service.

Longwood Club Makes Cookies for Nursery

At the Feb. 5 meeting of the Longwood Extension club, members brought cookies and candy for the Melita Day Nursery. This is an annual affair.

Roll call was answered by reading a verse off a homemade valentine. The devotional was given by Mrs. Tom Raines. A report on "Echoes from Farmer's Forum" was given by Mrs. Clay Schroeder. Mrs. Tom Harvey gave a report on "Family Affairs." Ten dollars was donated to the March of Dimes.

A social hour was held after the meeting.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Russell Evans on March 4. The program subject will be "Horiculture."

Assembly Points Up Catholic Book Week

To commemorate Catholic Book Week, the junior class of Sacred Heart high school gave a skit entitled "Library Fantasy." In the form of a broadcast, they presented it before the assembly on Thursday morning, Feb. 21.

The students impersonated the following literary characters: Shylock, Cedric, Eppie, Evangeline, Phoebe, Madame Defarge, Tom Sawyer, Huckleberry Finn, Jo and Amy March and Sheen Hensleigh.

The two narrators were Annette Moser and Vernon Steffen.

If a St. Patrick's Party is one of your "pipe dreams" at present; try to find a discarded pipe (one with a big bowl) then "gild the lily" so to speak. Paint the pipe, inside the bowl, stem and all with gold enamel. Tie a green bow on the stem and fill the bowl with cigarettes to pass after dinner.

Large corn cob pipes could be used for a "McArthur" party if you care to "play politics" when entertaining.

Mrs. Whaley Marries Here

Mrs. Mildred Whaley, 614½ South Ohio, became the bride of Hugh O'Daniels, Kansas City, at four o'clock in the afternoon Monday, Feb. 18, at the home of Rev. W. P. Arnold, 1005 East Fifth, Sedalia.

The Rev. Mr. Arnold performed the double ring ceremony.

Mrs. Dixie DeWitt and James Koeller attended the couple.

Circus Theme For Music Club

An unusual "circus" background will be employed for the concerted piano program at the Helen G. Steele Music club on Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 27, at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Jewel Harter Thomas and Mrs. Ed Ringen are chairmen and their plans include a ringmaster, clowns, balloons, a "menagerie," a snake-charmer, and all the earmarks of a true circus, portrayed in music and in actuality.

The concerted piano numbers will be in the form of duets, duo piano, and piano quartettes, with approximately 32 members of the club taking an active part.

EVANGELISTS who will conduct a series of revival meetings at the Salvation Army Citadel, beginning Feb. 26 and continuing to March 9, are Major and Mrs. Dan Wright, Rockford, Ill. They are veterans of 34 years of field work with the Salvation Army, devoting full time to evangelism since their retirement. Mrs. Wright is a soloist and will sing at the services. Theme of the revival is "The Midnight Cry," a world crusade the Army is now carrying on everywhere it serves.

SPRING NEWS is interesting this year. Nothing is drastically changed, yet there is a feminine newness to clothes. Most of the dresses have some fullness in the skirt—either a lot of gores, a gathered skirt or pleats. Most of these skirts are flattering, but they do require you to have a smaller, smooth waistline. So don't think you can cast your girdles aside, because they are more important than ever. The suits that have fuller skirts are indeed smart. They give you a shorter, easier-to-wear jacket. The necklines of the jackets are cute and allow lots of changes with scarves and flowers. Coat NEWS is the acceptance of the large shorter sleeve—don't shun it, because they are comfortable as well as smart. Upon inspection you'll find most of them can be let down and worn full length.

Men's Choral Club Concert For Music Club

The Helen G. Steele Music club presented the Sedalia Men's Choral club, under the direction of Abe Rosenthal, and two artist members of the club, Mrs. Edythe Ross and Miss Mabel DeWitt, pianists, in an evening concert, Wednesday, Feb. 20.

The program, which was complimentary to the husbands of the members, is an annual event. A number of guests were present, including wives of the choral club men.

Mrs. E. F. Yancey, life president, presided and called on Mrs. Ross for an announcement of the concerted piano program to be given on Feb. 27 at 2 p.m. Mrs. Yancey then turned the program over to the chairmen of the evening, Mrs. William Ward and Mrs. Philip McLaughlin.

A finely balanced group of choral numbers as chosen by Mr. Rosenthal was then presented and enthusiastically received by the audience. Miss Lillian Fox accompanied the choral club. The fine training which they receive, and the real interest and pleasure the men take in singing was evidenced by the excellent presentation of their numbers.

McNair Ilginfritz's "Hestation" and an Alec Templeton arrangement of "Swingin' Down the Lane," were played by Mrs. Ross and Miss DeWitt on the two concert grand pianos, with their usual fine balance and execution. The duo pianists received warm appreciation from the audience.

The choral club responded with two encores, "Stout Hearted Men" and "The Lord's Prayer" by Malottee. Solo parts during the program were taken by Al Domingue and Chester Brown.

Mrs. Gwinn Speaks To Jr. Garden Club

Lovett Will Be Asked About Service Split

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Lovett will be called before Congress upon his return from Lisbon to explain what some legislators said was a plan for further separating the armed services.

Chairman Bonner (D-NC) said his House expenditures subcommittee has seen a Pentagon document in Berlin directing the Air Force to establish its own supply system, its own corps of engineers and other special services. These have been furnished in the past by the Army.

Rep. Brownson (R-Ind) said the cost of setting up separate Air Force services "runs into billions of dollars."

The chairman said the subcommittee will hear Lovett, Chairman Small of the Munitions Board and the three service secretaries in a closed session. It will be held two or three days after Lovett returns, Bonner told newsmen.

The question arose during an open hearing yesterday, and Bonner suddenly shifted the subject with the statement, "We'll have to discuss these things in executive session."

The implication was the subcommittee had picked up additional information of a security nature during its trip last year to the Far East and Europe. Bonner told newsmen he saw the Pentagon document in Germany.

The subcommittee probed a wide range of subjects yesterday in continuing its efforts to locate waste and duplication in the military establishment. It will continue hearings next Wednesday, with Karl R. Bendetsen, assistant secretary of the Army, as the main witness.

Bonner opened yesterday's hearing by saying the Unification Act made the secretary of defense responsible for eliminating duplication in the operation of the armed services.

The subcommittee contends that many purchasing practices, including the two billion dollar annual clothing program, mean expensive duplication.

Archibald S. Alexander, undersecretary of the Army, told the subcommittee he did not believe there was any unnecessary duplication in present practices.

He also said, in response to questioning, that his department had ample authority, without further congressional action, to cut down waste. He said progress is being made.

Alexander said he did not know of the Pentagon document expanding Air Force facilities. He said the Army and Air Force had agreed to only a limited separation of special functions.

Brownson told a reporter that the two services agreed last July to separate the supply system, Engineers Corps, Ordnance, Chemical Warfare and Signal Corps activities. The Pentagon document set up a timetable, with Oct. 1, 1951, as the date for the new supply system, he said.

The additional cost, Brownson said, would come from added warehouses, separate transportation methods, additional personnel and a larger amount of goods in the "pipeline."

La Monte Legion Has Families At a Barbecue

Members of the La Monte American Legion post, No. 520, their families and friends enjoyed a barbecue supper Wednesday evening at the Legion hall there. Herman Opher donated a choice pig, weighing 180 pounds, which was barbecued by George McKeehan with the assistance of Denver Russell, Otte Tegtmeyer, J. J. Raney, Paul Steinkuler, G. Miles, Roy Taylor, August Dornman, Robert Taylor and Mr. Opher. Women of the Legionnaires supplied the rest of the menu for the repast.

Following the dinner, Commander Russell made a short talk and a discussion ensued on plans for the annual oyster supper to be held at the Legion hall March 7.

Ping pong, pool and other amusements were indulged in and a social time was enjoyed by the 100 in attendance.

Members of the La Monte post, which is fairly young, announce great pride in progress made. In the past two years membership increased from 15 to the present 57. # Smith-Cotton PTA Observes Founder's Day

The Smith-Cotton PTA Founder's Day meeting was held Thursday evening, Feb. 21, at 7:30 p.m. in the Little Theater. Mrs. John Loague, president, called the meeting to order with W. A. McVey giving the devotional prayer.

Miss Jerry Teufel presented the following musical program: vocal solo, Carolyn Heck, accompanied by Miss Ann Wollet; trombone solo by Gene Watts, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Watts; freshman girls' glee club presented three numbers, accompanied by Miss Ann Wollet; and a violin obligato by Miss Shirley Kirkpatrick.

Mrs. Lloyd Kirkpatrick, Founder's Day chairman, introduced Mrs. Laura Engholm, who gave a history of the Smith-Cotton PTA and read the names of past presidents. Those present were presented a rose.

Mrs. Loague named the following nominating committee for officers for the year 1952-53: Joe Benson, Mrs. Laura Engholm and Mrs. Lawrence Duly. The variety show was announced for March 13-14. Mr. Benson gave a short talk on absenteeism.

Mrs. M. E. Green introduced the speaker for the evening, Mrs. A. N. Fleming, Boonville, who spoke on "Good Citizenship in the Home." Mrs. Fleming said in part that the privilege of being a citizen of America is cheap at any price, but we do have to pay something for the privilege. "Sometimes we have troubles to face and the easy way out is not the most profitable. We owe something for security and must assume some duties. Teachers and parents must help children learn good citizenship by teaching them to get along with people, to be able to take criticism, how to bear pain and that God is our strength and refuge," she said.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served in the cafeteria. A small orchestra, under the direction of Miss Teufel, entertained during the social hour.

Tree rings have provided a calendar of weather and human life in Southwestern United States going back nearly 2,000 years.

Newsweek Says Gen. Mac Saw Article First

NEW YORK (AP) — Newsweek magazine says it gave Gen. Douglas MacArthur an opportunity to read and comment on a story about him in advance of publication.

Therefore, the magazine adds, "We had good reason for our confidence that it reflected his present attitudes accurately."

MacArthur, the story said, preferred Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio for the Republican presidential nomination but would "gladly support" either Harold E. Stassen or Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower if one of them were nominated.

In a statement Thursday night, the general said "misleading headlines, captions and advertisements" tended to "create the impression that I am favorable to the nomination of Gen. Eisenhower" by the GOP and "that I have a personal hatred of President Truman."

Neither is so, the general said.

A Newsweek statement yesterday did not say whether MacArthur had made any comment on the article; but it said he did not see in advance the story's headline which read: "MacArthur: Prefers Taft, Likes Ike, Hates Harry."

The statement, by Newsweek's publisher, Theodore F. Mueller, said in part:

"As for Gen. MacArthur's fear that our headline would create the impression that his feelings about President Truman was a personal matter, we can only assure him that his misgivings are unwarranted. Neither Newsweek's editors nor, we firmly believe, its readers confused the profound political differences of presidential politics with the personal prejudices of the public men involved.

"Gen. MacArthur pointed out that the body of the article supported neither of the impressions he got from the headlines. We are confident that our readers didn't get the impression the general did from the headlines and that, if any of them did, they were set right by the body of the article, which he himself found correct."

MacArthur in his statement Thursday did not say where he stood on Taft's bid for the nomination. But his support of the senator has been predicted, and the general never has denied it.

Delegates Who Got Truman Nomination Now Favor Kefauver

By Drew Pearson

The delegates who nominated President Truman in 1948 now overwhelmingly favor Senator Estes Kefauver to succeed him—if Truman chooses not to run again. This is the finding of the Joseph M. Baird company of New York, an impartial research outfit, which has quietly polled 2,798 delegates to the 1948 Democratic convention.

The results show Kefauver two to one ahead of his nearest rival, Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois. Of the 826 delegates who replied to the straw ballot, 35 per cent voted for Kefauver, 19 per cent voted for Stevenson, 15 per cent for Chief Justice Fred Vinson, 14 per cent for Illinois Sen. Paul Douglas and 4 per cent for Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas.

Kefauver held a commanding lead in the key states of New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, California and Michigan. He was the weakest in his own bailwick—the South—though even there he led most of the other candidates. In Georgia, he trailed Georgia's own senator, Dick Russell, but ran a close second. In Kentucky and Arkansas, Kefauver ran behind Chief Justice Vinson. Elsewhere in the South, the Tennessee senator polled the most votes.

His biggest lead was in his home state, Tennessee, where he received nine of the ten votes cast—despite the vindictive opposition of his colleague, Sen. Kenneth McKellar, who has vowed to crush him.

Though the poll looks good for Kefauver, it doesn't answer the $64 question: What would be the result if Truman decides to run against Kefauver?

Catholics May Get Meat During Lent

WASHINGTON (AP)—U. S. Roman Catholics may be permitted to eat meat once a day on Wednesdays during lent this year, except on Ash Wednesday.

Such a suggestion has been made by a three-man committee of the Bishops of America. Whether the abstinence rule will be relaxed is still up to the bishop of each diocese, who has considerable freedom in such matters.

At present, most Catholics in this country are forbidden to eat meat on Lenten Wednesday. Fridays throughout the year are meatless except on special holidays.

Lent this year runs from Feb. 27 to April 13 and most churches will announce the Lenten rules at tomorrow's services.

National Attention Centers On Main Street Drug Store

A. B. Warren, manager of the Main Street Drug store, is receiving national attention currently for the fine animal and poultry health products department he maintains at the local store. The above picture and an article about Mr. Warren and the department appear in the February issue of "American Druggist," a magazine circulated among all drug stores of the country.

Part of the attention given Warren and the store is for the advertising campaign which is carried on through the columns of The Democrat-Capital. In these advertisements Mr. Warren always devotes some space to animal health products and carries a personal column on news of this department of the store.

The unusual services offered by the department, even to a library on animal health, are also mentioned.

Outstanding display of the health products has attracted wide attention in drug circles and Mr. Warren has been contacted by other drug magazines relative to articles and pictures for those publications.

He Loved Her Mother, So Wife Gets Divorce

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mrs. Rosemary McDonald, who testified her husband loved her mother, won a divorce today.

Judge Joseph A. Artl granted her freedom on grounds of gross neglect.

The 22-year-old woman testified Pfc. Kevin McDonald, 30, was in love with her mother, Mrs. Mary Jane Nye, 42, and had written her love letters.

Both Mrs. Nye and McDonald, a member of the Air Force stationed in Arizona, denied any romance.

Atomic Blitzkriegs 'Alien to Soviets'

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Army Chief of Staff, Gen. S. M. Shtemenko, declared today that "atomic blitzkriegs and blitzkriegs of aviation wars are alien to Soviet military science."

His views were published in Pravda, the government newspaper, as an observation of the 34th anniversary of the Soviet Army and Navy.

He said Russia is "not brandishing its arms" and is no danger to anyone except those "who would encroach on our peaceful labors."

New Wonder Pills Save Those Ill With TB

NEW YORK (AP)—Two new wonder pills have saved people hopelessly sick with tuberculosis, their lungs riddled with holes, too weak to get out of bed.

Within a few weeks, many were up and about, had gained up to 20 pounds, felt far better.

Whether the two new drugs have actually cured TB, the nation's biggest infectious killer, is too early to say. But they look "better than anything so far" in treating TB, Dr. Marcus D. Kogel, commissioner of New York City Hospitals, announced.

He said they had been tried on 150 "desperately sick" patients, wonders for people who had not been expected to recover.

The drugs, taken as pills, are closely related. They apparently kill TB germs. Several pharmaceutical firms are making or experimenting with them and several institutions are testing them. The drugs, non-patentable, can later be made in quantity, and cheaply, far cheaper than streptomycin.

Soviet Even Runs Cosmetic Firms There

MOSCOW — (AP) — In the Soviet Union the government runs the cosmetics industry like all others.

Cosmetics is one of the most flourishing consumer businesses in the country, with the annual trade running into millions of rubles (the ruble is worth 25 cents by Soviet reckoning).

Cosmetics are sold in every city and village, and there are lots of buyers for lipsticks, powder, perfumed or plain soap, shaving creams, cold creams, combs, perfumes and toilet water.

The lipsticks and powders come in various shades and tints, and some shops even carry eye shading and substance to touch-up the eyelashes.

Moscow has numerous cosmetic shops, but certainly the most interesting is one on Mokhovaya Street, just in front of the well-known Hall of Columns.

The perfumes come in many shapes and sizes of bottles.

The most popular, perhaps, are "Kremlin," and "Red Poppy."

"Kremlin" is sold in a glazed glass bottle the shape of one of the historic towers of the Moscow building.

"Red Poppy" has a distinctive scent which has been favorably commented upon by a lot of travelers.

Many Russian women use cosmetics. In the cities the majority do. In the villages their use is generally confined to the younger girls, but the cosmetics are there if anyone wants them.

Barbor shops and beauty parlors—both state enterprises—go in for the use of cosmetics as a matter of routine. A perfume spray, be you male or female, is almost a must.

Beauty parlors offer all kinds of services from permanent waves (pronounced per-ma-nient) to a manicure and nail-coloring job.

Oh, yes, the cosmetic shops also sell nail polish and little bottles to remove it.

H-Bomb Secret Work 'Not Dissatisfying'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The hydrogen bomb project is still top secret but the head of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee says cautiously he is "not dissatisfied" with its progress.

Sen. McMahon (D-Conn), chairman of the group, told interviewers on a radio program last night he could not give details yet.

But he said the atomic stockpile is so large that any attack—by Russia now would be the "height of foolishness" on its part.

No Place for a Heavy Foot!

You'd find it out, in a mile or so, even if we failed to tell you. But we think it's best if we tell you now—

—you must treat the accelerator with special respect when you drive the Golden Anniversary Cadillac!

Down under the hood of this gorgeous car is the most powerful engine ever used in standard American production.

So take it easy—wherever you drive.

Don't use that power to bolt away when the light turns green—and other cars have their ways to make in the traffic lanes beside you. And never use it for unnecessary speed, or for dominating the highway.

Use it, instead, for the thing it was put there for——use it to give you that easy, floating, comforting ride which can come only when your engine is "loafing," and most of its power is in luxurious reserve——use it to give you that "shot ahead" when an opening shows in the traffic line—or when your safety calls for a blast of power—

—use it for a thrilling sense of mastery over car and time and space—

—use it, in short, for happiness and luxury—and for adding satisfaction to every mile you drive.

As you would expect, this amazing performance is but one of the wonderful virtues that have been added to the Golden Anniversary Cadillac.

There is marvelous new beauty—inside and outside. There is a wholly new type of power steering—available as optional equipment at extra cost. And there are literally scores of refinements and improvements of vital importance.

For its "year of years," Cadillac has certainly built its "car of cars."

Come in and see it—whether you feel you are ready for a Cadillac or not. It's an inspiration to inspect it—and an experience to drive it.

Homan Scores 25 As Tigers Crush Windsor Five, 60-52

Coach Bob Edmundson, piloting the Smith-Cotton Tigers for Coach Howard Glavin, who was ill Friday night, saw the Bengals rack-up their 14th basketball success of the season as they whipped Windsor's Greyhounds, 60-52.

Ray Homan was the outstanding performer for the Tigers as he poured in 25 points. In the first quarter the Windsor cagers were hitting with uncanny regularity from out-court and had it not been for Homan's shooting the Windsor lead might have been impossible to overcome.

In the first period Homan hit his first four shots he took and the fifth was blocked. At the end of the first canto the Tigers trailed 18-14. Hunt was the big gun for Windsor with seven points.

Windsor Leads at Half

Windsor increased its advantage one point in the second frame as the Greyhounds outscored Smith-Cotton 16-15. The score at the end of the first half was 24-29 in favor of the visitors.

Three minutes after the second half started the Tigers were in the lead as Homan hit two straight buckets and fed Lanning a set-up for the leading two-pointer. In the third frame Homan hit five straight shots for ten points, while Lanning tossed in nine for runner-up. Hunt's seven points was tops in this frame for the cooled-off Henry countians. At the end of the third quarter the Tigers led 51-44 as they scored 22 points while holding Coach George Bishop's crew to ten.

In the slow-action final period the Tigers outscored Windsor 9-8 as Lanning was top point getter for S-C with four.

Lanning Scores 18

Lanning took second high scoring honors for the Tigers with 18 markers, while Hunt pushed in 19 to lead Windsor.

The game was the Tigers' finale for the regular season as they now enter regional competition in the Warrensburg regional Tuesday night.

Ray Homan took scoring honors for the season for Smith-Cotton with 249 points, but Claude Murphy, who saw action only part of the season due to a hand injury, was the player with the leading average, 14.3 points per game, compared with 11.6 for Homan. Bill Cooper scored 199 points for a 9.4 average; Lanning got 180 points for an 8.3 average; Potter scored 77 points, Sheperd 75; Schneck 51 and Murphy 128.

The Tigers compiled a 59.9 average from the free toss line with 256 charity points in 425 attempts.

Last night the crowd gave hustling Claude Murphy a fine ovation as Coach Edmundson put the one time Tiger star in the line-up during the last minute of play.

Shoulder Injury For Roy Sievers During Workout

BURBANK, Calif., Feb. 23—(AP)—Outfielder Roy Sievers of the St. Louis Browns suffered a dislocated shoulder while working out today.

Club officials said the injury appeared to be similar to one suffered in San Antonio last August.

Sievers was making a routine throw when he felt the pain in his right shoulder.

"It felt just like it did last year," Sievers said.

He will return to St. Louis for examination by club physician Dr. J. G. Probstein Tuesday. No estimate was made on how long he will be out of action.

The outfielder reported for training early this year so he could get into shape slowly. Manager Rogers Hornsby said Sievers had been looking good. He was rookie of the year in 1948, then went into a slump. He was farmed out to San Antonio last year to improve his hitting.

Eight Regional Olympic Boxing Tournaments

OMAHA, Feb. 23 — (AP) — Eight regional Olympic trial boxing tournaments have been scheduled in advance of final tryouts at Kansas City June 16-18, William H. Thomas of Omaha, chairman of the National AAU and U. S. Olympic boxing committees, said today.

Bengals To Face Carrollton Team In Regional Meet

Parings for the Missouri state high school Class A regional basketball tournament at Warrensburg, which gets under-way at the Central Missouri State College gymnasium Tuesday night have been announced by the tournament manager, Earl Keth, coach of the CMSC basketball Mules.

Coach Howard Glavin's Smith-Cotton Tigers are not seeded in the eight-team meet, which finds the defending champions, Lee's Summit, in the top seeded position.

The Tigers play the first night of the four-day tourney when they face fourth seeded Carrollton. Smith-Cotton has a 14-8 season record, while Carrollton has won 15 of 20 contests.

Lee's Summit opens the tournament against Wentworth and the Tigers face Carrollton in the second clash.

Wednesday evening Clinton leads off against Raytown and Lexington's Minutemen, winners of the Missouri River conference, wind-up the first round against Excelsior Springs.

Clinton got second seeding with its 18-4 record and Lexington was picked as the probable third place team with a 16-4 mark for the season.

Teams are seeded by the Missouri State High School Activities Association solely on the basis of won and lost records for the season.

Third Sub-Par Round

Jack Burke Leads In The Houston Open

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 23—(AP)—Little Jack Burke fired his third sub-par round in the Houston Open today to fashion a five-stroke lead with a 54-hole score of 205.

He turned in a 69 to go with his 36-hole total of 69-67 and that put him 11 under for the par 72, 7,100-yard course.

Ed Porky Oliver, moaning about the water that made fairways lanes of mush came in at par for a total of 210.

Rain fell all day and it was almost dark when Burke and his partner, Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., finished.

Stranahan Gets a 73

Stranahan, British amateur champion who yesterday turned a six under par 66, soared to a 73 today for a total of 212. That made him top amateur but left him tied with John Barnum, Grand Rapids, Mich., the only other player to better 70 today, at third. Barnum turned in a 69.

"Burke's got this in his hip pocket," Barnum commented as he turned in his round, four-two-somes ahead of the curly-haired son of the former professional at the Houston Country club.

That was after Burke, who won the Texas Open last week at San Antonio, had eagled the par 5 488-yard No. 13 hole with a 12-foot putt.

Only five broke par today and just four tied it in the rainy weather.

Wilt Shatters 2 Mile Record

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—(AP)—Flying Red Fred Wilt of the FBI, running at his natural distance, shattered Greg Rice's American indoor two-mile record by running the distance in 8:50.7 tonight in the IC4-A games at Madison Square Garden.

While a crowd of 11,000 cheered him on, Wilt opened up ground on Horace Ashenfelter, a New York Athletic club teammate, in the last three laps.

It was only the second time this season that Wilt has run the two-mile distance. The other occasion was in the Knights of Columbus games, the first major meet of the season, when he ran the fastest flat-floor two-mile ever turned in —8:59.5.

Andy Davis Signs With Redskins for '52

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—Andy Davis, star halfback at George Washington university for the last four years, today signed to play for the Washington Redskins professional football team.

LaMonte Has Edge In Class "B" Tourney

The best Class B basketball team in Central Missouri, according to season records, is Coach Charlie Brewer's LaMonte Vikings, champions of the Pettis-Benton County Activities association.

The Vikings have rolled up a 25-1 record for the season. They play in the Windsor sub-regional tournament. Other teams from this area in the Windsor tourney are: Calhoun, Cole Camp, Deepwater, Green Ridge, Leeton, Lincoln, College High of Warrensburg and Windsor.

Keytesville Tournament

Slater and Nelson will participate in the strong Keytesville tournament which includes such strong teams as the Fayette Falcons and Keytesville, both considered among the best in class B circles.

At Prairie Home

The Prairie Home tournament includes more teams from this area than any other in this area. Headlining the tourney there so far as Sedalia is concerned is Coach Palmer Nichols' Sacred Heart Gremlins. Others are Boonville Catholic high, Bunceton, Clarksburg, Otterville, Pilot Grove and Prairie Home, all of the Cooper County Conference, and California, Jamestown, Tipton and Smithton.

Concordia's Tourney

Going to the Concordia subregional from this area are Alma, Concordia, St. Paul's of Concordia, Grand Pass, Houstonia, Hughesville, Knob Noster, Malta Bend, and Sweet Springs.

Versailles, Stover, Cross Timbers, School of the Osage, and Warsaw will participate in the Cross Timbers sub-regional.

32 Sub-Regionals

The winner and runner-up of the Windsor tourney will participate in the Warrensburg Class B regional tournament as will Concordia's winner and runner-up.

The Cross Timbers winner and runner-up will go to the Lebanon regional. The winner and second place team of the Prairie Home tourney will travel to the Central college regional.

There are 32 class B sub-regionals through the state and eight regionals.

Class B schools are those of under enrollments of 270. The subregionals are slated to start the week ending March 1. The regionals will get underway March 4, lasting through the 7th, and the state Class B tourney at Cape Girardeau is slated for March 11, 12, 13, 14 and 15.

Colorado Kicks Props From Under K-State

BOULDER, Colo., Feb. 23—(AP)—A scrappy crew of Colorado youngsters upset the basketball world here tonight by tumbling highly regarded Kansas State, the nation's number two team, 67-57.

The Colorado club, paced by two freshmen—Art Bunte and Tommy Harrold, played inspired ball to regain some of the prestige knocked off when the Wildcats poured it on at Manhattan, Kas., earlier in the season, 92-40.

Bunte, not only scored 18 points, but he had Kansas State's scoring ace, Dick Knostman, under cover, holding him to one field goal and four free throws for six points.

Harrold, a Muncie, Ind., boy, continually advanced the Buff's offense with fine floor play and five drive-in buckets at crucial times to collapse the K-Stater's defense.

Jessie Prisock, 6-5 freshman, was the only Wildcat able to score with much consistency, rolling up 17 points.

Colorado hit 25 of 68 field goal attempts for 37 per cent and 17 of 28 free throws for 60 per cent. K-State hit 21 of 71 field goals for 29 per cent and 15 of 22 free throws for 68 per cent. The Colorado club outhustled the much rangier Wildcats around the boards, taking 48 rebounds to 27 for the losers. Bunte handled 14 misses.

Along with the freshmen, Colorado's junior forward Frank Gompert played a standout game as he kept his younger mates in check. He was high scorer with five field goals and 10 charity tosses for 20 points.

Optimist Basketball

Over 64 Boys Taking Part In Cage Loop

A total of more than 64 Sedalia youths under the age of 15 are being treated by the Sedalia Optimist club again this year with a chance to play basketball.

This is the third year for the successful Optimist club cage league. Each year more than 64 boys have been accommodated by the program.

The games are played on the Whittier and Horace Mann courts this season, with the Optimist club bearing full expense of the program. After regular league play the teams will hook up in the annual tournament in mid-March.

Helped Sacred Heart

The first year of the program Sacred Heart won the title. From that title winning team of the 1949 Optimist League, three players on the Gremlin varsity are products of the loop. They are Dick Stohr, Pat Ryan, and Jim Fall.

Last year the Optimist East nudged Scout Troop 65 of the Presbyterian church for the title, but the scouts are well on their way to the 1952 crown, with the Democrat carriers but running a game back in second place.

The first year of the program Carl Ballinger was the chairman. Dr. Russell Drennon operated the league the second year and Paul Mines is in charge this year.

Each team plays at least one game each week, usually on either Tuesday or Thursday night, with the program lasting seven weeks.

Teams in the league and coaches are as follows: Optimist East, Richard Esser; Optimist West, Jim Reed, Dr. Chester Kirkpatrick and Walace McCown; Democrat Newspaper Carriers, Paul Mines; Presbyterian Midgets and Tornados, Alvin Heynen; Episcopal, Howard Painter; Red Birds, Dr. Russell Drennon; and the Methodist.

Optimist Teams Entered

The Optimist East and Optimist West teams are composed of boys from the Optimist clubs' boys units.

Officials for games are Pat Darnell, Richard Schmidt, and Bobby Case.

Cliff Barr is the chairman of the Optimist basketball committee and members of that committee are Gene Williams, Cecil Glenn, Bob Seelen, Dick Esser, Paul Mines and Dr. Drennon. Ed Ringen is president of the Optimist club.

Names of most of boys taking part in the loop league are as follows, as divided into teams:

Democrat Carriers: Larry Mines, Merlin McCown, Matney Lane, Gary Wickliffe, Howard Shenework, Franklin Howell, Ronald Mueller, Duane Guymond and Jerry Bethke.

Troop 65 Tornados: Van Dyne, Kennon, Griffin, Ringen, Wertz, Barbour, and Noland.

Troop 65 Midgets: Kubli, Murray, Woodsmall, Anton, Herrick, Haney, Rothganger, Conrad.

Episcopal: Painter, Self, Dunlap, Hopper, Walch, Woolery, B. Walch, Sklar, J. Walch, Sheridan.

Optimist West: McFatrich, Burlingame, Spraggins, Paxton, D. McFatrich, Benner, C. Palton, D. Walker, Goff, Boone, S. Walker, Dietzyman.

Red Birds: Rudd Van Dyne, Ellyson, Brummett, Miller, Rochter, Berry Cook, Shannon.

Methodist: Greer, Oswald, Yount, Richardson Shepard, Miller, Butch Shepard, Shoe, Berry.

Optimist East: Edwards, Martin, Alley, Rhoades, Clemmons, Estes, Means, Bryant.

Carriers Score An Easy Triumph In Optimist Loop

The Democrat-Capital Newspaper Carriers scored an easy victory over the Troop 65 Midgets Thursday night, 67-11. In the second game the Troop 65 Tornados continued to set the pace by running over the Optimist East, 41-9. Games were played at Whittier school.

McCown led the scoring for the Carriers with 25 points, followed by Mines' 20. Murray topped the Midgets with six markers.

Kennon was top scorer for the Tornados with ten points, while Clennons hit six for the Optimist East.

Next week will complete the seventh week of the Optimist league. Games will be played Monday night at Horace Mann and Thursday night at Whittier.

The Troop 65 Tornados hold a one-game lead over the Carriers in the flag race.

Newhouser Unsigned; Wants Pact Agreement

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—Lefty Hal Newhouser hasn't signed his 1952 pitching contract with the Detroit Tigers because he wants an agreement he will not be traded.

This was disclosed today by general manager Charley Gehringer as Newhouser skipped the second spring training workout of Tiger pitchers and catchers.

Gehringer told newsmen:

"In the event he comes back and pitches well, he wants a pledge that he will not be traded. I told Hal it was impossible to make a promise like that. If he starts winning again and we think it would be advantageous to the club, we'll trade him.

"That goes not only for Newhouser, but every other player on the club."

Santa Anita Derby Is Won by Hill Gail

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 23—(AP)—Kentucky's Hill Gail knocked the wind out of the Windy City II boom today, whipping the Irish colt by four lengths for a smashing victory in the rich Santa Anita Derby.

Scoring a revenge triumph for the lacings he took in two previous clashes at Santa Anita park, the Calumet farm's dark brown bay son of Bull Lea drew down the handsome purse of $92,900 out of a pot of $140,000.

Sport Scraps

By D. KELLY SCRUTON

SMITH-COTTON high school is to have another outstanding track team—in spite of not having a place to get in some real training—according to Coach Robert Karnes. As a "teaser" Karnes is taking his squad to Kansas City this week-end to see the Big Seven Indoor meet, making the trip in the school bus.

For this week at the High School he has set up a pentathlon contest consisting of five events. Karnes has chosen the low hurdles, broad jump, high jump, shotput, and the half-mile run for the contests. He has not decided on the points to be awarded, but the top will be 1,000. The contest will start Tuesday providing the weatherman will permit.

Karnes is the best track coach in the Central Missouri Conference, and as far as the track men on his squad are concerned, he is the best in the state. In fact, the majority of those boys out for track live an breathe Karnes. Why shouldn't they? Karnes was the best trackman to emerge from the Big Seven in years—even if he did come from Kansas.

BASKETBALL popularity in the area surrounding Sedalia began a steady rise the past season, while in Sedalia proper it didn't show much of an increase. The spotlight was taken over by the Pettis-Benton County Activities Association, whose schools had experienced increased attendance at their games this year over any previous season.

LaMonte, the new league champions, drew capacity crowds several times at home and was always an attraction at the towns where the team played.

The PBCAA tournament games drew exceptionally large crowds both at the Northern and Southern play-offs and the championship tournament at Green Ridge. The Green Ridge finals resulted in standing room only.

Old-timers at Smithton report the best season for attendance for many years was experienced. The Smithton-Sacred Heart game drew a record attendance of better than 500 fans.

Other teams reported improvement in attendance and all comprising the PBCAA are Cole Camp, Warsaw, Lincoln, Green Ridge, LaMonte, Hughesville, Houstonia, Smithton and Sacred Heart of Sedalia.

Incidentally, it was reported all these teams experienced a better year on the financial side.

We cannot overlook the fact also that volleyball in the circuit proved to be well up on drawing interest in the sports this year.

SEDALIA Lions Club is endeavoring to spur up their meeting by inviting Bill Veeck of the St. Louis Browns organization to come to Sedalia and give them the "low-down" on the up-and coming Browns. Veeck has been touring the state telling all about his ball club and has just about sold everyone on the idea they will be the top team in the American League this year.

Manager Roger Hornsby's remarks about the ball club coupled with the "pouring-it-on" public relations of the ball club president, indicate they mean business in '52.

With the rumor out, several Lions have already been contacted by baseball fans locally hinting for invites to the dinner. There's no argument it will make business good for the Bothwell with Veeck on the program.

Finland Sweeps In Two Championships

Threatens To Wrest Honors From The United States

OSLO, Feb. 23 — (AP) — Hardy little Finland swept championships in the women's 10-kilometer cross country and the men's 40-kilometer relay ski races today and threatened to wrest runnerup honors from the United States in the sixth Winter Olympics.

These snow and ice games end tomorrow with the dramatic ski jumping on famed Holmenkollen hill and final hockey jousts on the Jordal Stadium rink. The Finns could sneak into second place in the unofficial team standings by outleaping the favored Norwegians in this big, climactic show, expected to draw 150,000.

Formidable Jumping Team

Finland has assembbled a formidable jumping team, headed by Tauno Luiro, a daring lad who celebrates his 20th birthday tomorrow. Luiro is credited with the longest ski jump on record—456 feet in Oberstdorf, Germany, last year—but the championship is decided on form as well as distance.

The Norwegians have clinched the team crown with 107 points after 20 of the 22 events on the program.

The United States follows with 84½. However, Americans figure to pick up a few points in the hockey tournament, already conceded to Canada, and possibly a point or so in the ski jump if their national champion, Art Tokle of Brooklyn, is in razor-sharp form.

Finland scored an amazing 31 points today to leap from fifth to third place with 72. Her stout daughters finished 1-2-3 and also picked up a fifth place in the grueling women's ski race.

The American hockey forces kept their title hopes alive by conquering Czechoslovakia 6-3, in a rough and tumble game at Jordal Stadium. It was the sixth victory in seven games for the United States, which closes its tournament campaign tomorrow night against the undefeated Canadians.

Now Tied With Sweden

The U. S. now is tied with Sweden for second place behind Canada. A victory over the Canadians could throw the tournament into a three-way tie. Sweden beat Switzerland, 5-2, today while Canada topped Norway 11-2.

Lydia Videman, a 28-year-old typist who will retire soon to become a housewife, won the 6¼ mile grind over a heavily-wooded course in 41 minutes and 40 seconds. She had a decisice 59 seconds edge over teammate Mirpa Hietamies, who had 42.39, with Siiri Rantanen third in 42.50.

The United States chose not to contest this championship. Marta Nordberg of Sweden was fourth in 42:53 and Sirkka Polkunen of Finland fifth in 43:07.

Win 25-Mile Relay

Shortly afterwards over the same course—a milly rout that winds around a wooded mountainside and ends at the foot of Holmenkollen hill— Finland's tireless four-man team won the 40-kilometer (25 miles) relay in two hours, 20 minutes, 16 seconds.

The United States, out of the running from the very start, finished 12th in the field of 13 with a clocking of 2:53:28. Only the fact that Bulgaria's anchor man broke a ski and didn't finish prevented a complete U. S. rout.

Regardless of what happens in the ski jump and the hockey tournament, this is the best showing a United States team ever has made in the Winter Olympics. In 1932 —during the depression — the games were held at Lake Placid, N. Y., and America won a hollow victory against a tiny field.

Illinois Stops Iowa, 78-62

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Feb. 23—(AP) — Illinois turned on white hot pressure in the third quarter to smother Iowa 78-62 tonight and virtually clinch the Big Ten basketball title even though Iowa's Chuck Darling set a new conference season scoring record.

It broke a first-place deadlock between the two teams and left Illinois with a 10-1 record against Iowa's 9-2. Iowa had defeated the Illini 73-68 at Iowa City Feb. 9.

Darling, although harassed all the way, rang up 22 points for a new season record of 284. The former 14-game season record was 277, set last season by Northwestern's Ray Ragelis.

After trailing only 34-28 at halftime, Iowa collapsed completely before Illinois' 22-point spree in the third period. In that stanza, Iowa collected only 11 points.

Easter In Condition, Trouble For Pitchers

TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 23—(AP)—Luke Easter, Cleveland's giant first baseman, tipped off American League pitchers today they are going to have trouble with his hitting throughout 1952.

Apparently recovered from a knee operation, the 235-pound Negro insisted, "There is no doubt I'm going to have a great season from start to finish."

Easter missed 29 games last year because of a trick knee. Cleveland lost 17 of them. The knee bothered him even when he was in the lineup. Tribe officials were worried about the operation until "Big Luke" appeared for batting school. They are much happier today.

Bicycle riding slimmed Easter's waist and put him in top playing condition. "I'm wearing an elastic brace on the knee. It feels fine," he said.

More Fisherman To Be Ready

Thousands To State Parks For Trout Season Opening

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 23—(AP)—Ever see a butterfly struggle out of its cocoon, feebly creep around and then stretch its wings with spring-born strength and fly away?

That's just the sort of metamorphic goings-on that's taking place for Missouri's trout fishermen this time of year.

And at dawn next Saturday, no matter how ugly the weather—these hardy characters will be stretching their winter-stiff casting arms.

Reservations Long Gone

For months all the lodgings at Missouri's three state trout parks have been sold out. And in the tackle stores nowadays you'll see bright-eyed fellows from 16 to 76 poring over the fancy little flies and gadgets so dear to the angler's heart.

They throw away the thermometer and deal only with the calendar when it comes to the trout opening. A die-hard angler just doesn't let the weather stop him.

He might be mildly annoyed, mind you, if the snow blurs his bifocals or if the pelting rain runs right on through that "waterproof" fishing jacket. Or if the ice keeps clogging the guidses of his imported split bamboo rod.

But there he is with a "spring is here" grin on his face and the inner belief that the very next cast will be irresistible to a savage ole lunker rainbow that probably will take 15 minutes to subdue.

He may just have slipped in over his boot tops and be suffering the racy thrill of icy water around his quaking knees. He may just have been snagged by that other fisherman's back-flung fly.

He may have slipped away from home while his wife was doing the weekend shopping and be due for a session in the doghouse when he gets back.

Just Have To Be There

But there he is—rod, line and sure-death lure—lined up beside the rest of the best guys in the world, the fellows who just have to open the season.

And this year it will probably be more crowded than ever before because the growingly popular sport starts on Saturday—giving even the working man a shot at the opening.

Some 2,000 anglers took part in last year's opening at the three state parks—Bennett Springs near Lebanon, Montauk near Salem and Roaring River near Cassville—and the special trout management areas along other spring fed Ozark streams. And thousands more came for the fun of watching.

Governor Smith Too

Gov. Forrest Smith said he plans to return to Bennett Springs for the opening this year. He enjoyed one of the finest opening days in years last year. The sun was bright and warmed the temperature to springlike levels by midmorning.

Even so, fishermen had the usual troubles with ice stiffened lines at dawn. They caught fish, too, and that was more important.

The State Conservation Commission and the park board reported the streams in the three parks have been improved over the winter, cleaned and deepened.

And about the middle of this coming week employes will restock the spring branches with fat and sassy hatchery trout to give them a chance to get settled among the rainbows that spent the winter there.

The Conservation Commission reported the anglers will be "standing shoulder to shoulder." But that's not quite true. There's always room for one more.

Come on out.

Duquesne Joins Defeated Ranks Via Villanova

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 23 — (AP) —Duquesne, the nation's last major unbeaten basketball team, had its 18-game winning streak snapped tonight, 64-62, by upset-conscious Villanova in an overtime period. The Dukes failed to extend a stirring rally that carried them to a 60-60 tie in regulation time.

Vikings Post Win No. 25 Over Knobs

The LaMonte Vikings scored their 25th basketball triumph of the season Friday night when they swamped their only conqueror of the season, Knob Noster's Panthers, 58-39, on the Knob Noster court.

The Vikings suffered their lone loss in the finals of the Central Missouri State College tournament at Warrensburg early in the season by a 41-40 score. Since then they have defeated the Knob Noster five two times.

It was a hard-fought contest with LaMonte in the lead all the way, but Knob Noster never gave-up. In the first period the victors grabbed a 17-11 advantage and boosted it to 31-18 at intermission, then holding the safe margin throughout the third and fourth cantos.

Bill Jackson was again the big gun for LaMonte. The 6-foot-5 center poked in 17 points and was outstanding on the backboards. However, high point honors for the game went to teammate Bob Reavis, who marked-up 19 tallies on seven fielders and five free tosses.

Peterman scored ten points to take high honors for Knob Noster.

LaMonte, paced by Kindle's 12 points, also triumphed in the "B" contest by a 33-25 margin. Moore and Harfields hit six each to top Knob Noster.

Warrensburg Defeats Ottawa U. 65 To 57

OTTAWA, Kas., Feb. 23—(AP)—Warrensburg defeated the Ottawa university basketball team 65 to 57 tonight. It was a nip and tuck affair from the start. The score was tied at 48-all at the end of the third period. Dudley, Geise, Ottawa center, led the scoring with 26 points. He established a new school record for three years of play. He now has 991 points, against 972 for Bill Tiegreen, who established the old mark in the three years ended in 1950.

Spartan Valor Captures Rich Widener Handicap

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 23 — (AP) — Spartan Valor and Jimmy Stout, a terrific New Jersey team, broke in front and easily fought off every challenge today to capture Hialeah's $50,000 added Widener handicap, Florida's richest run for mature thoroughbreds.

Just like he did in the recent $25,000 McLennan, Spartan Valor, the sleek, dark pride of the New Jersey farm of William G. Helis, Jr., shot into the lead from the starting gate and ran all the way with daylight between him and his nearest competitor.

Bowling Popularity Rises Here

Approximately 300 bowlers are taking part in leagues at the Sedalia bowling lanes this year. To go with that, the most popular sport in Sedalia on the basis of participation by adults, probably has that many more bowl at times in open bowling.

Nine leagues of six teams are now operating and a tenth league, to be composed of high school girls, is scheduled to start Wednesday afternoon at 3:30.

All members of leagues are members of the City Bowling association of which Carlton Kelley is president and Red Wittman is secretary.

Plan Two Tournaments

The City association plans a tournament in March with only members of the leagues eligible to participate. The same tournament for teams, doubles and singles is planned for women bowlers.

Jim Ryan, according to records, is Sedalia's best bowler. His 182 average in the 9 p.m. league Monday of Sedalia Merchants tops all leagues. He also has the leading average in the Thursday 8:45 Merchants league of 180 and in Thursday's motor league of 179.

The Sedalia Bowling Lanes are operated by Harry O'Mealy and Bob Land, two genial fellows that have worked hard in building up the sport in Sedalia.

Since taking over the management, O'Mealy and Land have completely re-modeled the local lanes and re-decorated all of the interior. At present they have the most appealing spot in Sedalia for sportsmen, but still they are not satisfied and hope someday to have a completely new building with more alleys and more types of recreation.

Hope to Build In Future

Talking over their hopes for the future, Land and O'Mealy described the building they had in mind. It would be a one-story structure with 12 alleys, a snack bar, and perhaps a dance floor and other recreations such as ping-pong and shuffle-board.

Interest in bowling since Land and O'Mealy have been in Sedalia has rocketed high. Two more leagues, accomodating over 80 more bowlers have been added and another is scheduled to be added for the 1952-53 season, which would give a complete schedule for leagues.

The local lanes are kept in excellent condition by use of the most modern in bowling equipment. The American Bowling Congress approves all leagues and repairs on the local alleys.

Alleys Kept In Shape

The fantastic Brunswick surfacer is used on the alleys every two years. This surfacer automatically sands the alleys to perfect smoothness.

If, and when Land and O'Mealy build their new plant, it will be a definite assist to sports in Sedalia.

The top woman bowler in Sedalia is Mary Scott, who boasts a 152 average in the Ladies' Merchants league. She also has a 145 average in the Business Women's league.

Rolfe Sees Tigers Back In Flag Race

LAKELAND, Fla., Feb. 23—(AP)—Manager Red Rolfe thinks his Detroit Tigers will be back in the first division this season because of the return of one pitching star and the comeback of another.

The star that Rolfe didn't have last year but will have this season is Art Houtteman, the pitcher released by the army. The comeback guy is Virgil Trucks, who recovered from a sore arm in the latter stages of the 1951 campaign.

Of course, Rolfe also counts on the return to form of all his three outfielders, Hoot Evers, Vic Wertz and Johnny Groth, plus the resurgence of second baseman Gerry Priddy and shortstop Johnny Lipon.

"The return of Houtteman makes us at least a dozen games better than we were a year ago," said Rolfe. "He won 19 games for the Tigers in 1950 and we were in the pennant race all the way. With the young fellow around again and trucks looking so good, I've got two potential 20-game winners.

"I think Trucks was the best pitcher in the league in the last six weeks of the season."

"Pitching could very well be our strong point even though we had to give up Bob Cain and Gene Bearden in order to get some catching and outfield help. If my two sore-armed lefthanders come through, the staff would be in fine shape. I'm referring to Ted Gray and Hal Newhouser.

"Dizzy Trout still has a sound arm and will be my top relief pitcher. I look for Fred Hutchinson, Hal White, Marlin Stuart and perhaps one or two youngsters to round out my staff. Stuart has developed a knuckleball and is quite effective against some clubs.

"Aside from pitching we're about the same as we were last year except for our recent deal with the Browns that gave up catching strength in Matt Batts, a good reserve outfielder in Cliff Mapes, a promising pitcher in Dick Littlefield and an infield hopeful in first baseman Ben Taylor.

"We have a veteran infield. Gerald Kell is tops at third base, of course. Lipton can do the job at short and priddy is a good second baseman. Don Kolloway and the kid, Taylor, will battle it out at first base.

"We will be better than last year. We will work and we'll surprise a lot of people. I can't say we will win the pennant but everyone will know we've tried.

"As for the best, they all figure good. The Yanks will miss DiMaggio but they'll be in good shape. Cleveland can win with its pitching. The Red Sox will miss Williams a lot. Chicago seems to have improved and the Browns and Athletics will be tough from the beginning. Washington can throw some rough pitching at you, too."

Missouri's football team played to 231,710 customers during ten 1951 games.

Ike Plans To Visit Turkey And Greece Early Next Month

PARIS, Feb. 23 (AP)—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower probably will visit Greece and Turkey early in March his headquarters said today.

The two countries have been admitted to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. A visit from the supreme commander of Allied Powers in Europe would be a logical sequel to the tour he undertook a year ago of the original 12 member nations.

In answer to queries, a headquarters spokesman said the general is not planning any trip to the U.S. in the foreseeable future.

"This has been his position for some time and it has not changed," said the spokesman.

However, it was confirmed that George Allen and Sid Richardson, described as two old friends of the general, were here as Eisenhower's house guests. It was recently reported in Washington that Allen would fly to Paris to attempt to persuade the general he would have to come home and campaign if he really wants to be President.

The spokesman said Eisenhower had been the guest of Allen and Richardson in the U.S. several times and that they were simply repaying his visits. They arrived a few days ago, he said.

Newspapers Foot Bill For Own Criticism

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP) — The managing editor of the Norfolk (Va.) Ledger-Dispatch said here today newspapers foot the bill for publishing stories unfavorable to themselves.

"Despite the high cost of production, newspapers invariably publish stories about such attacks (on themselves) and meticulously quote the most damning and untruthful statements about themselves," Thomas A. Hanes declared in a speech prepared for delivery at the annual meeting of the Virginia State Printers' Association.

"Thus two purposes are accomplished. The pettifogger succeeds in obtaining advertising for himself while abiding technically by his code of professional ethics which prevents him from buying any newspaper space. And the newspapers prove by their very act of publishing stories unfavorable to themselves that they practice honest journalism.

"Can you imagine one of our accusers paying a job shop to produce leaflets to circulate a scurrilous story about himself?"

Hanes added that "journalistic integrity is subjected to frequent verbal assaults, usually by beady-eyed shysters imposing upon captive audiences in courtrooms and legislative halls."

Sourdoughs Now Seek Deposits Of Uranium

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The ghost of the old sourdough still stalks the American frontier but, in this atomic age, his rainbow ends at a pot or uranium.

No gold for today's fortune hunter. It's chunks of uranium ore he's after, be he downy-cheeked schoolboy or dollar-wise business man.

The Atomic Energy Commission, AEC telling about this growing band of prospectors, said today it does all it can to help.

It offers a bonus to anyone who findes uranium ore, even if it contains as little as one-tenth of one per cent uranium. It supplies them, too, with a handbook showing how to go about this kind of prospecting.

The handbook was first printed four years ago. Now all 77,000 copies have been gobbled up. So the AEC has begun circulating a revised version, complete with color pictures of eight kinds of uranium-bearing ore. The books cost 45 cents each.

Kansans Urge Truman Move

TOPEKA, Kas., Feb. 23—(AP)—The Kansas State Democratic committee today unanimously urged President Truman to make himself available for renomination.

The committee voted to hold the state convention at Hutchinson April 12.

Homer Clark Held By California Police

Homer Clark, on parole from the Missouri penitentiary, is in custody in Newhall, Calif., and being held for Sheriff John Taylor in connection with the theft of money and checks from the System Mills, and a car belonging to the milling company last Nov. 11.

A pickup order for Clark was issued after he was noticed to be missing with the motorcar and money. The car was later recovered in Springfield, Mo., and returned to Sedalia. The exact amount of money and checks taken was not determined, but according to reports it was in the neighborhood of $700.

Sedalia police received a call Saturday afternoon, as did Sheriff Taylor, in which they were told Clark was being held. It was indicated Clark had given himself up to the officers in California and informed them he was wanted in Missouri.

Dempsey Heavyweights To St. Louis On April 1

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 23—(AP)—Jack Dempsey's heavyweight boxing tournament will visit St. Louis April 1 with 20 amateur fighters—all over 175 pounds—expected to try for the $1,000 prize.

The first U. S. stop for the tourney is to be Toledo, March 4.

DOC BOB, YOUR DRY CLEANER, SEZ:

"NOW . . . A FABRIC THAT SHEDS SPOTS and STAINS!"

(No. 1 of a Series of Three)

A fabric that sheds spots and stains! Sounds fantastic, doesn't it? Many fabulous claims have been made about fabrics that are treated with a finish to make them stain and spot resistant. One claim states that such finishes will result in a saving of "one billion dollars a year in drycleaning" bills" for Mr. and Mrs. Q. Public.

To show the absurdity of such claims, the NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF CLEANING AND DYING points out that the total volume of all 28,000 cleaning establishment in the country is one billion dollars. Fabrics treated with stain-resistant finishes become soiled with wear and use as do other clothing and household items. They will require cleaning to keep them in a wearable condition. FOR EVERY ADDITIONAL CAR THE OIL INDUSTRY PUTS UP $500

YES, for every car you add to those already on the road—someone in the oil industry must invest more than $500 in new facilities. It takes that much money to provide the producing, refining, and distributing equipment to keep one additional car rolling. And it is a staggering total when you consider that last year the number of cars in operation went up about 2,400,000—to say nothing of additional trucks, busses, tractors, oil burners, etc.

No government subsidy enters into paying the cost of the new facilities to handle this new business. This cost is met by the oil companies themselves—the sound, profitable, going concerns—both large and small. Since World War II members of the industry have spent over 12 billion dollars for new equipment.

During the same period Standard Oil and its subsidiary companies have spent over one billion dollars in this way. An important part of this money has come from re-investment of two-thirds of its profits for new tools and equipment in a vast expansion program.

This investment has also provided research facilities for product improvement. It has provided more and better jobs. In turn, it has yielded new profits that help Standard Oil add to the progress of the industry.

By putting a major part of our earnings back in our business, we are making sure that you will get still more and still better oil products in the future. You will get them even if your requirements should become far, far greater. And you will get quality goods at reasonable prices.

Investment of $500 in new facilities for every additional car that goes on the road thus yields returns both to us in the industry—and to you, our customers.

Standard Oil Company

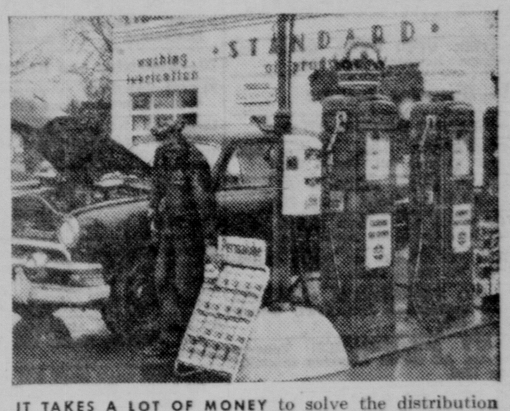
IT TAKES A LOT OF MONEY to find oil these days. The cost of finding oil in the ground is now several times greater, per barrel found, than ten years ago. A "wildcat" drilling operation can represent fifty to a hundred thousand dollars, sometimes runs over a million dollars. Yet America's oil reserves are at an all-time high. We have shared in making this possible through reinvestment, in the past several years, of two-thirds of our profits to help provide necessary new facilities.

IT TAKES A LOT OF MONEY to move crude oil from the well to modern refineries and refine it into more than 2,000 petroleum products. Alvin R. Jones, of our Neodosha, Kansas, refinery works on a cracking unit, a part of refining equipment costing millions of dollars. The modern tools and equipment with which our employees work, provided in large part by reinvested profits, help our employees produce more, earn more and enjoy steadier employment.



IT TAKES A LOT OF MONEY to solve the distribution problems connected with bringing you the finest petroleum products through Standard Oil dealers like Earl Bengston of Decatur, Illinois. Thousands of independent businessmen serving you under the Torch and Oval sign, provide the products you want, where and when you want them. And gasoline today is one of your biggest bargains. It sells at 1925 prices (only the tax is higher)—yet two gallons today do the work that then took three.

Principals Come Up With Plan to Combat Criticism of Schools

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—A group of elemental school principals has come up with a plan to combat what it terms unwarranted and irresponsible criticism of teachers and school administrators — an education program for the general public.

A forum of central district pricipals, meeting in conjunction with the regional convention of the American Association of School Administrators, decided on the plan last night during a discussion panel.

Glenn E. Snow of Washington, D. C., assistant secretary for lay relations of the National Education association, said attacks on the public school system have been in three principal fields:

Demand for concentration on fundamental subjects; demand for more emphasis on spiritual and moral values and charges that some school programs foster Communism and other subversion.

These attacks, Snow said, usually come from uninformed persons or from organized pressure groups.

To combat these attacks, Lester George, a Richmond, Ind., school principal, said "We must take parents and other interested citizens into our confidence . . . explaining our intentions" as changes or innovations appear in the education program.

Big Muddy Not Under Bridge Built For It

DECATUR, Nebr., Feb. 23—(AP)—The Missouri river is a flightly, double-dealing and unpredictable dame.

She's got curves like a bathing beauty and if you don't think she's a heartbreaker, ask the folks who built the two million dollar Missouri river bridge here.

It's a bridge-without-a-river, built over dry land to save an estimated $400,000 in construction costs. Builders planned on getting the river back under the bridge after they get it up.

The bridge has just been completed. But it has yet to carry its first toll-paying vehicle. The river still flows several hundred feet away. And army engineers estimate the cost of putting the river back under the bridge at just short of eight million dollars.

To appreciate that the builders haven't been guilty of sheer folly, you have to know the river—an irresponsible creature whose jags of flooding, detouring and general cussedness are legend.

Every once in a while, the river decides to cut a new channel. This might happen anytime it takes on a heavy load of water.

Once the river starts on one of these jags, she's as determined as a housewife at housecleaning time. With the help of the abrasive sand and silt in her water, she can scrap a geography book as quickly as a schoolboy on the last day of school.

Six years ago the river broke out of its normal channel here, and carved a new cause about a third of a mile away.

Army engineers, who handle channel stabilization work, intended to bring it back to its proper channel. They still do.

Local interests, who long had wanted to build a bridge to link this town of 800 persons with the Iowa town of Onawa, across the river, decided to capitalize on the river's channel-hopping escapade.

With the blessing of army engineers, they built the bridge on dry land in anticipation of the day the river would be back where she belongs.

But the mean old river hasn't cooperated. Day by day she's been getting wilder. Day by day the cost of taming her goes up. And the money is nowhere in sight.

Army engineers estimate it will cost $7,900,000 to move the river back into its channel.

"This figure will undoubtedly increase with further delay in getting the work under way," says Col. H. J. Hoeffer, Omaha district engineer. He estimates a 16-mile stretch of the river upstream from the bridge will have to be tide down.

From the current fiscal year, the engineers have had less than four million dollars for river stabilization work for the entire several hundred mile stretch between Sioux City, Ia., and Kansas City. The money is being spent on more critical downstream areas. President Truman has asked congress for five million dollars for such work in the fiscal year starting next July 1.

In other words, the money is not in sight.

Meantime, interest payments keep coming due on the $1,970,000 worth of revenue bonds issued by the Burt County Bridge Commission. Money has been set aside to handle interest payments to April 1953.

Mayor W. W. Small of Decatur, president of the bridge commission says his group has some plans in mind which might put the bridge in service this summer. But he'd rather not say just yet what they are.

Of course, there's always the possibility, says Small, that the unpredictable river will move itself back under the bridge unassisted, particularly during the spring high water and ice jam period.

With the muddy old Missouri, anything is possible. Such an act of charity would certainly become her.

Hotel Landmark Goes

PINCHER CREEK, Alta.—(AP)—A landmark in this Southern Alberta town since 1899, the Arlington hotel has been torn down. The hotel, built of hand-made bricks on a district farm, was known for many years simply as "The Brick Hotel."

Bettyanne Clayton, Herbert Lane Please Windsor Crowd

By Mrs. Leonard Prifer

WINDSOR — Miss Bettyanne Clayton and Herbert Lane of Peoria, Ill., held their audience spell bound through two hours of concert singing, Sunday afternoon at the Windsor high school auditorium, sponsored by the Methodist church.

Miss Clayton was superb in her heavier numbers and delightful in her lighter ones, always with perfect control. Mr. Lane's true tones and spontaneous personality made an instant hit with the audience and it seemed together they couldn't sing enough duets to satisfy the crowd.

To hear one of these artists would please even the most critical, but to hear both in one performance was just out of this world.

About 400 were in attendance at the concert.

Mr. Lane is the son of the late Jim Lane, a native of Lincoln, and is a nephew of Joe Lane of Lincoln.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Flippin spent the week-end at Climax Springs with Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Flippin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smart and son entertained with a dinner Sunday in honor of their daughter, Carol Sue's third birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ed Buck, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Smart, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Pickett, Phyllis and Don, Mr. and Mrs. George Eckhoff, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hansen and son, Kansas City. Mr. and Mrs. Claus Eckhoff, Cole Camp, were afternoon visitors.

Mr. and Mrs. Lockwood and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Weiss were Clinton visitors Monday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lane, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Clayton, Russell Fielder, Peoria, Ill., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Merryfield, Bobby and Billy.

Mrs. George Miller and Verna Mae Taylor left Monday afternoon for Kansas City to spend a few days before returning, to their home in Sacramento, Calif. They were called here by the death of their mother, Mrs. L. R. Oakes.

The Rev. Russell Lytle returned Saturday morning after spending ten days in the Jefferson City district as director of evangelism. He preached each night at Manchester. The evangelistic and visitation campaign in Windsor will begin March 2 and last thru March 9.

The Star Bridge club met Tuesday night with Mrs. Robert Watt. A dessert course was served preceding the games. High score prize was made by Mrs. W. A. Armstrong.

Cadet Smith on Dean's List at Wentworth

Cadet Robert L. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Shearer, Helena, Mont., and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Lenington, 1102 East Ninth, has qualified for the dean's honor roll for the first semester at Wentworth Military academy, Lexington. Maj. Dallas C. Buck, Wentworth dean, said only superior students qualify for the distinction. The honor cadets must have average grades in all subjects and top grades in at least two fields. No cadet may be considered for major academic awards until he has qualified for the dean's honor list.

Sacred Heart Winning Season Just Another Nichols Success

Chief Booster 'Nick' Has Starred Many Years As Player, Coach of Cage Teams

By Gene Williams

A hustling Sacred Heart basketball team has plunked itself into the glare of the basketball spotlight in Sedalia as a result of its fine season, which resulted in a string of 21 victories against only five defeats in playing a schedule of both Class A and B schools.

The Gremlins opened the season by winning eight straight games before dropping a 59-58 decision to St. Mary's of Independence, in a game which developed considerable confusion as to the correct final score—different in three score-books.

How has this team, which won only six games last season, been able to do it? Probably because of these important factors: experience: fine team play; squad spirit; and the most important, plenty of hustle.

The Gremlins are coached by Palmer Nichols, better known to sport fans throughout the state as just plain "Nick"—a coach known for his noise from the bench. In piloting the Gremlins to their most successful season in history, Nick was asked recently why he made so much noise on the bench. He replied, "My boys fight for me, why shouldn't I fight for them? My bunch wants to win and when they are beaten the opposition usually knows they have been in a real scrap."

One of the leaders in this fighting crew of basketball tossers is Captain Bill Hodges, a 6-foot-4 center. Hodges is definitely Sacred Heart's 'big man on the back-boards, but he also found time to toss-in 350 points this year, his third as the Gremlin post-man.

However, Hodges is not the entire team. In Jim Fall, a left-hander, the Gremlins have a fine all-around cager, who is best known for his uncanny leaping southpaw jump-shot-mainly responsible for his total of 382 points for the season, high for an individual Sacred Heart player.

Flashiest of the Gremlins is the speedy and colorful Jim Labus, whose ball-stealing talent and fast break ability have thrilled the crowds this season. Three other players who have added much to the Gremlin success are Pat Ryan, Kenneth Jett and sophomore Dick Stohr.

Among the "B" team members that have given valuable help to the varsity this season are Bob Welliver, Jim Dick, Bob Bennett, Henry Dick and John Seifner.

Welding this group into a winning combination has been Nichols' chief ambition. Before the season started he had the Gremlins sold on the idea that this was their year and the results were most satisfactory.

Nichols' Winning Coach

Nichols began coaching in 1924 when he was player-coach of the Central Business college cagers. Later he played and coached the Missouri Pacific Dynamos, which were railroad basketball champions for five seasons. Then he took-over as mentor of the Rosenthal Clothiers a team which owned a record of 84 wins against 16 defeats. In his last coaching job, before taking the Gremlins, he was his own boss with his own team the famous Nichols Five Pennies, known throughout the United States for their cage prowess.

Nick's basketball career has covered a long period of years and it took him in virtually every state in the union—racing a total of 1,016 games before he finally hung-up the uniform and called it quits.

However, his retirement was short lived. When he was asked to assume the coaching of the Sacred Heart high school team in 1949-50 he accepted and turned out a 13-12 record for the first year.

Rebuilding Is Big Task

After losing five of his regulars that year, the job of rebuilding was a long, rough road, but the result helped build the fine 1951-52 five. The year of rebuilding saw the S-H crew win only six games.

Nichols isn't prone to discuss his long basketball career, claiming that it is past history. But he will readily go into great lengths to talk about some of his Sacred Heart players.

While in high school he was a member of Sedalia's only listed state high school basketball champions—the 1923 team coached by J. P. O'Neil. Should some energetic mathematician attempt to figure out the ditsance that Nick has traveled on a basketball court or figure the total height of his jumps, he would have to search-out Einstein's terminology to see if there were a couple of good unused dimensions lying handily about.

Nichols is a great believer in conditioning. A typical Nichols-coached team is one that can go the distance without substitution.

When playing with the Five Pennies, the squad consisted of only six men, playing a schodule of 75 to 100 games per season.

Six On First String

The Sacred Heart squad consists of only six "first stringers" and in some games the sixth player encounters trouble in breaking in the line-up.

Nick uses the fast break game at Sacred Heart because the boys like to run and shoot, as proved by the 1,313 points the Gremlins have racked-up in 26 tilts for an average of 50.5 per game this season.

He uses the simple basic formula in coaching basketball of catching the ball properly, passing the ball, and shooting. Style is no concern for a winning combination, says Nichols.

In recounting some of his experiences, Nichols had this to say, "I have played in so-called gyms everywhere, from moving picture theaters to coal bins, dance halls, barn lofts and even cages strung-up with wire and fish netting with sturdy wire enclosures, so that the ball was in play all the time. Playing on an outdoor court with wood floors it was sometimes necessary to sweep the snow off the floor so the game could be played.

Nick claims the game has graduated from indoor football to a highly specialized running game, which requires cleverness, perfect co-ordination and stamina. It is now a game of big boys, expert ball-handlers and high scorers.

Nick's Own Memoirs

The following is Nick's own memories of a colorful career.

"Most of the early games were played in gyms crowded with various types of apparatus, wrestling mats, wall bars and even running tracks (the Y.M.C.A. that was formerly in Sedalia was this way). It was not unusual for a fast moving forward to run up a ladder and dunk-in a two-pointer or dribble the length of the court at full speed, grab a post, and watch the defensive player rush by."

"One gym in which I played had six posts in the playing area. When basketball games were not being played a poultry concern used it for feeding. Ceilings were often so low that the most successful player was the "angle guy", who knew just where to hit the ceiling to carome the ball into the basket. They also used walls for Carome passes to their teammates, confusing the opposing players.

"Many times the only out-of-bounds was the wall at the end of the court and the game, as a result, was a combination of handball and basketball—with the ball moving constantly."

"At one time the rules stated that when the ball went out of bounds the player who first touched it was entitled to throw it in without interference. It was not uncommon in these days for a player trying to get the ball to dive head-long into the crowd to get the first touch."

Lots Of Funny Things

"Many daffy things have happened and many of these happenings have resulted in rule changes which made a better game. For instance a player jumped on another player's back one time and took a pass from a teammate to flip the ball through the rim. Once a player running full speed down court kicked the ball into the backet. In another incident a long try for a field goal fell far short of the rim, hit a player on the head and glanced through the hoop for one of the oddest cage victories ever. Another time a player spilled on some grease, which had been left on the floor of a garage-basketball court. As he fell he accidently threw the ball over his head and into the basket to win a game in a fourth over-time period."

"I played in some of the most interesting and vicious basketball in the early part of the century when fist fights were not unusual. Police escorts out of town and out of gyms to keep the hostile crowds away from the players was common occurrence. Another often occurrance was spectators near the court throwing and tripping players—besides calling them un-complimentary names."

Comments On New Rules

In rule changes over the years Nick says the elimination of the center jump and the ten second rule has added to scoring. He recalled that in the old days there were some good scorers around. In fact, Nick once scored 56 points in one game and several of his teammates had consistent point averages of 25 and 30.

Nick pointed-out that we call today's game fast. He readily admits that fact, but recalled a team that once scored 21 points in five minutes for a victory.

"The game, while still changing, has come a long way and I am happy that I was able to make part of the journey with this truly exciting and fascinating game. The greatest part of it is being associated with so many fine boys and men connected with backetball, Nick concluded.

COACH PALMER NICHOLS discusses strategy for a play with Sacred-Heart's captain, Bill Hodges, during one of the victories chalked up by the Gremlins this season.

Will Sports Revival Hit Sedalia?

By Gene Williams

Will a revival of enthusiasm in the field of sports hit the Sedalia area in the near future?

That question has been one of discussion among sports-minded fans during recent years, but this same question would have been scorned by the majority 15 years ago when Sedalia was the hotbed of fine athletic teams and when patronage from fans was tops.

Who can honestly say that Sedalia is still a good sports town?

What has happened to such fine drawing cards as golden gloves, the semi-pro baseball teams, local basketball and football interest?

Sedalia lost the boxing of the golden gloves several years ago when interest slumped. No longer is this area represented in the tournament of champions at Kansas City where Dean Murray, Sid Dalsted and others made such outstanding showings. If towns the size of Chillicothe can ably support such an event, can anyone answer why Sedalia can't?

Perhaps it's lost interest of the youth. However, interest can be built up if a boy can see the rewards that come from the program, or the experience he would gain by being active.

For the past seven years wrestling matches have been promoted at the local armory, but at the present time crowds have dipped to such low numbers the match-maker has threatened to stop the show at the local ring.

Why don't Sedalians attend the wrestling matches? For sure, it's not because they don't like the sport. Too many times the interest has boiled toward the top for a "grudge" match or when a champion was making his appearance. Hannibal draws an average of 2,000 fans to the mat show. Can Sedalia draw half that number for a city as big as Hannibal?

Picnic and Ball Game Sunday

"Years ago," the oldtimers tell us, "we would play before giant crowds on a Sunday afternoon on the local baseball diamond. The entire family would come to the park for a picnic and then watch the local nine perform against bitter rivals." Such times were in the days when Sedalia had two teams headlined by such stars as "Emery" Dillard, Potts Evans and others.

Maybe the times when the family would go to the park for a picnic and ball game are gone forever. But the people are still sports minded and the rivalry still exists in some corners. The crowds do not.

Since the end of World War II Sedalia has fielded some of the best teams in the state in the Ramblers, Athletics and Ban Johnson Chiefs, but the home-town support has been so dismal that all but the Chiefs folded.

Did these games lack color and spirit? Hardly. Remember the Taylor-Sweeney incident at Library Park back in 1948 or the McMackin-Steck affair in the 1947 semi-pro baseball tourney? These were just occurrences in exciting days of sports that didn't connect with the ninth-inning rallies or that perfect, no-hit pitching performance of Bus Walker.

Smith-Cotton was once the site of a huge throng every time the Tigers participated on the home court. Seating space would quickly become unavailable and the standing room was packed. These times still existed even as late as 1946-47. Now the S-C games don't draw a half-of-house. The teams are of the same class on a comparison of year to year. Why don't people go to these games? That's what a lot of people have been asking.

Many Now Bowling

However, this article presents the majority of the problems on the worse side and as the saying goes — things 'get worse before they grow better.

More people are participating in sports at the present time than in the past few years. At the Sedalia bowling lanes complete leagues operate every week night, open bowling gets fine patronage and the game is rapidly growing in popularity in Sedalia.

During the 1951 football season at Smith-Cotton the Tigers set an attendance mark better than any of the past seven years. With the new stadium it may be that Sedalia will draw crowds of 4,000 and 5,000 to high school games, something to compare with Columbia.

In track Smith-Cotton has one of the finest track coaches of any high school in the state in Bob Karnes, former Kansas university star miler. Last year Karnes built the Tigers into a Contral Missouri conference winning unit. With a track to practice on, the Bengals might be a threat in tougher competition with coaching like Karnes'.

However, neither track nor bowling are fans' sports in Sedalia since the bowling alley doesn't have audience seating and Smith-Cotton holds its track meets on the road, and will until a track is built in Sedalia.

'Empty' Without Crowds

Those two items, bowling and track, go to prove that crowds are not necessary to develop a winner and interest, but to be sure you can ask almost anyone connected with the sports that it takes a lot away from the game not to have a following.

One of the brightest notes in the field of sports in Sedalia is the Sacred Heart basketball program. Although the seating capacity is rather small, the Gremlins have drawn large crowds and will draw larger crowds in years to come as plans are in the fire to increase seating capacity.

Other forms of recreation, such as a municipal basketball league and softball loop have died out for lack of interest and finance, but are in bad need of revival.

This all goes to prove that sports are not dead in Sedalia, but at a flickering point where they are weak from undernourishment.

To revive the enthusiasm, everyone who is sports-minded must sell others on sports to build up interest. It is up to dalians to get back what they have lost.

Golf in Sedalia runs bowling a close race in the number of participants and in popularity. At the Country club there are about 100 active men golfers and 30 women golfers. The local club has one of the finest nine-hole courses in the state, and the greens are surpassed by none.

Before 1951 the Country club sponsored an annual pro-amateur tournament, but it was postponed then due to the elements. However the tournament will be resumed in all probability.

Rx Preston, by making a complete change at Elm Hills, has given a tremendous boost to Sedalia's golf game. Last year it was estimated that 100 golfers were active on the Elm Hills course.

WHAT EVERY SEDALIA FAMILY SHOULD KNOW

If there is any place where profit should not be a motive it is the burial place of your loved ones. To you this is sacred ground and you hope and desire that it be maintained permanently. Therefore it is important to know who is back of the cemetery where your loved ones will be and what can happen in the future.

Cemeteries in this community fall into three classes: (1) those owned or operated by religious organizations. (2) Those owned and operated by cities. (3) Those owned and operated by privately organized corporations. When cemeteries are owned and operated by religious organizations or cities, moneys paid in by the public are never diverted to private gain. On the other hand, the record of cemeteries owned and operated by individually organized and controlled corporations shows: (a) that some of said corporations have become bankrupt and had receivers appointed, (b) that in some instances (when profits cease) they sell out or let the cemetery become a lot owner's problem, (c) that in some instances they have made assessments, (d) that in some instances the trust funds paid by persons interested have been diverted. Numerous instances of similar and other abuses, in connection with corporation owned cemeteries are contained in a report dated Feb. 11, 1949, made by the Attorney General of the State of New York to the Governor of that State.

Why take a chance when for a reasonable sum you can purchase a lot in your City owned cemetery, Crown Hill, and assure permanent care and maintenance backed by the municipality itself? The City pays no sales commission or profits to promoters. Your City cemetery, Crown Hill, offers you lots in a wide range of prices. Choice lots in the new addition are available for $40 per grave space. If you buy a lot for say $160, what happens? Immediately 50% ($80) is placed in a fund for care and maintenance of the cemetery. This fund is being increased not only from the sale of lots, but also from the gifts and bequests of loyal citizens. This fund is invested in approved income bearing securities and is managed by a board of citizens appointed by your Mayor and City Council.

The other 50% ($80) is placed in a fund for the regular operating expenses of the cemetery which is managed by a cemetery board appointed by your Mayor and City Council.

Purchase your lot in Crown Hill Cemetery and have your investment backed by the City of Sedalia.

Mr. R. C. Parkhurst, Superintendent, 830 North Engineer, Phone 1562, will be pleased to give you any information you may desire.

Truman Unpopularity In SW Similar to Hoover's in 1932

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1951, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

VERNON, Tex., — Out in the Southwest, Harry Truman's name is so besmattered with mud that you almost feel sorry for him.

At the giant W. T. Waggoner ranch near here, a cowboy who was told he was going to get a raise in pay protested violently.

"No sir," he exploded, "I ain't a gonna take it. If I get a raise it means I pay more social security to the government, and I'm not going to give one more dime to that man Truman."

This sounds like an exaggeration, but it isn't. It's about typical of how a lot of folks feel out here about the President of the United States. The situation is probably similar to that which existed in the latter days of the Hoover administration when, just before election in November, 1932, Hoover took a train to California to vote.

Sitting for months in the White House, Hoover had had no idea of the rapidly mounting tide of unpopularity. Callers and advisers had assured him of election success. As he crossed the continent, with his train stopping for rear-platform appearances, the meager, hostile crowds for the first time gave Hoover a portent of things to come. A few days later he was overwhelmingly defeated.

Texans are intrigued over the senatorial re-election race of caustic, crusty Tom Connally, who has represented the Lone Star state in Congress for more than a quarter century. When Gov. Allan Shivers was scheduled to run against Connally, it was said the senator had a bad case of "the Shivers"; but now Price Daniel, young attorney general of Texas is running against him and Connally isn't shivering any more. Those who know Texas politics are betting that Long Tom's caustic tongue will be heard in the Senate for some time.

The second biggest ranch in the U.S.A. spreads out over 570,000 acres of North Texas near here in a farming operation that makes an Easterner rub eyes in bewilderment. Owned by W. T. Waggoner, who drilled wells for water and got sore when he struck oil, the ranch now has enough oil wells to bring in millions rgeardless of beef, and enough cattle to bring prosperity regardless of oil. Still short of water, the Waggoner estate has dammed up streams to form three big artifical lakes and has scooped out a couple of hundred ponds to water cattle during the dry season.

Though ranching today is big business, even the most modern rancher can't get along without the cowboy. But the profession is one which doesn't seem to enlist new recruits. Few youngsters—at least in the West—want to become cowboys. They become mechanics, salesmen—or go to college.

Biggest boon to the western cattleman was high war wages, plus the meat ration fed to GIs during the war. Today the cattle population of the nation is higher than ever before. But so, also, is the demand for meat. As long as eastern wages are kept high, the whiteface will continue to be king in Texas.

BACKS COURAGEOUS SEAMEN—At his home in Woodbridge, N. J., Capt. Henrik Kurt Carlsen, here of the Flying Enterprise saga, views a picture of the stern section of the split tanker, Fort Mercer, after hearing that 13 crewmen had elected to stay aboard the craft. For the men who chose to ride the half-ship through the storm, Carlsen had the message, "Good luck, God bless you." (NEA TELEPHOTO)

Spring Housecleaning May Reveal Historical Treasures

When Missouri women clean house this spring, the State Historical society at Columbia hopes they won't be too zealous in throwing away old dairies, letters or pamphlets concerning Missouri which they may find.

Floyd C. Shoemaker, secretary of the society, says that practically all dairies kept by Missourians are worth saving, and most letters written before 1900 are historically valuable if the writer comments on his Missouri environment or makes observations on events other than the purely personal.

Pamphlets or booklets relating to local institutions and groups, old city directories, telephone books, town ordinances, historical sketches of churches and businesses, all may contribute to a greater knowledge of Missouri history.

Stored in attics, in basements, in drawers and closets all over the state are scattered bits of history which the unwary housewife may destroy, not knowing their value. What should she do with such items that she finds but doesn't want to keep around the house. Send them in to the State Historical society, says Shoemaker, or write, telling details about the find.

Somewhere in Missouri may be another treasure equal to the recently discovered J. R. Simmons dairy of a trip to the California gold mines in 1949-50, which the society plans to publish in book form this year.

The Peacock Path

By Edwin Ratt

Copyright 1952 by NEA Service, Inc.

THE STORY: Ames Warburton, partner of Marney Cravath, stockbroker, is found dead in the night at the foot of cliffs below Peacock Path on Cravath's estate. Jim Orth, private detective, who had been invited to Cravath's estate to investigate attempts on Cravath's life, learns from Mrs. Ring, the housekeeper, that some "thing" pushed Ames over the cliff and that she had seen him fall as she watched from her bedroom window. She could not tell what the "thing" was. Besides Cravath and his niece Sally and the servants, guests at the place include Jack Dumont, another partner, and his wife Dolly, Dave Sladen, Cravath's secretary, and a wealthy widow, Mrs. Eve Wheeler, a client.

• • •

VI

WE threw a few more questions at Mrs. Ring. She could swear that there was no one in the space where the trees stop and the cliffs began besides Ames Warburton—no one within at least 20 feet of him. She left, nose tilted at an angle, suggesting that she accused us of placing little credence in her story, and the more fools we.

After she had gone Cravath sat silent a moment, lips pushed out, long strong fingers drumming the arms of his chair. "Well," he said, at last, "what do you think of that?"

"I think," I said, "that Mrs. Ring is sincere, at least. She honestly believes that Warburton didn't go over that cliff accidentally or voluntarily."

He shot me an apprehensive look from under tufted iron-grey brows. "Murder, then?"

"That's what she seems to think."

He got up, paced the floor. "Look, Orth! I was fond of that boy. If there's been monkey business here, as Ring suggests, I'll pay real money to clear things up. Do you"—his light-blue eyes seemed to pop at me—"understand?"

I understood. The agreed fee for bringing in whoever was gunning for Cravath, and a bonus for the murderer of Ames Warburton—if indeed there was a murderer. I nodded.

"Yes," I said. "Could be that we've got to deal with just one—ah, operator."

He stopped pacing, took Scotch and glasses from a cellarette. There wasn't any ice but the water was good and cold.

• • •

I SIPPED whisky and said: "I've got a theory about why Warburton was out there. He was looking for his watch."

Cravath stared at me. "So! Practically on the edge of the cliffs? No, that's no good. He couldn't have thought he'd dropped it in a place like that."

"Well," I said, not too confidently, "it's just a guess. But it could have been carried there by that little dachshund of yours. Isn't he a bit of a kleptomaniac?"

"Yes," Cravath said slowly. "I hadn't thought of Fritzie. And the little devil does steal things all the time. But look here! You're suggesting that Ames gets up in the dead of night and starts roaming around the grounds, looking for his watch. To my mind, that's pretty farfetched."

"It's farfetched, all right," I agreed. "But it's the only explanation I can offer as to why he might have been out there at all."

Cravath shook his head unbelievingly.

"Well," I continued stubbornly, "the fact remains that Warburton didn't have his watch before dinner. But it turned up when he's found on those rocks. Okay. Warburton was seen to climb the fence and then stoop down. He'd seen the watch and was getting it. Then he either stumbled or slipped or . . ."

He wrestled visibly with this idea. It was plain that he didn't want to accept it. "Pushed or struck, Ring thinks. Well, what with. The police went over the ground thoroughly and found nothing out of the way. There wasn't anything to find. Except that the grass was scuffed up quite a lot. Ames' feet when he tried to save himself, I suppose."

I shrugged. "I don't know. But listen, Mr. Cravath! Presumably only you and I and Mrs. Ring know that she saw anything at all tonight. The murderer, if there is one, doesn't. So . . ."

He got it at once, and interrupted. "So if he were to find out, Ring might possibly be in danger. Well, I don't think he will. Ring's very close-mouthed. However, I'll put a flea in her ear."

"Yes," I said. "And keep your own door locked tonight."

• • •

I WAS glad that he called the discussion off. Vaguely, as we talked, the desire to look over the end of the Peacock Path for myself had come, and grown. Now it was translating itself in terms of a must. And I knew, too, that I had to do it immediately. To wait for daylight would be unwise. In the first place, if the police had missed anything, the presumed murderer would have more time to find and remove it. Secondly, as a guest here and supposedly a fairly feather-headed one, I wouldn't want it thought that I evinced inordinate interest in this affair.

Of just what I hoped to gain, I hadn't the foggiest idea. But while I've got plenty of respect for the police I thought their examination could stand a check-up in this case. Marston Cravath, I'd understood from Sally, was highly allergic to publicity. At the time when he talked with the authorities, Mrs. Ring had not told her full story. It seemed to me that, possessed only of its bare outline and probably believing Ring either mistaken or hysterical, Cravath would almost certainly have aided and abetted any official tendency to regard Ames Warburton's death as a mere mishap. In short, I thought it possible that, quite unwittingly, he might have influenced the thinking of the police.

Which wasn't good enough for me—if there were a murderer loose at Windover.

Italy Eyes Mineral Search

ROME—(AP)—Iron-short Italy is watching with interest the progress in geological research near Viterbo, 50 miles north of here, where iron and manganese ore was found recently.

The Italian Geological Institute, where samples of the ore were examined, found "a very high iron content" and ordered further checks in the area for possible radio-active materials.

The search was led by an Italian industrial firm, looking for geysers to use for the production of electricity. The iron ore came from a depth of 100 feet.

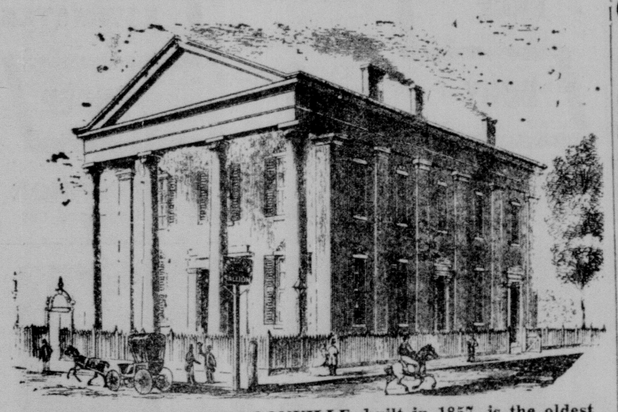
Lure of the Footlights Drew Missourians to Early Theatres



THESPIAN HALL AT BOONVILLE, built in 1857, is the oldest theatre in the Middle West still in use.

Candles flickered in stray gusts of wind, and icy drafts curled aronud the booted ankles of the audience in the one-story frame courthouse in St. Louis.

It was February, 1818, and the playgoers in the uncomfortable old building watched enthalled as Bertram; or The Castle of Aldobrand unfolded on the stage through the dramatic skill of William Turner's little troupe of actors—probably the first professional theatrical company to come to Missouri.

These frontier Missourians willingly paid a hard-earned dollar apiece for admission to the magic realm of the theater, to see colorful costumes and painted scenery and a story far removed from their everyday world. Many had attended plays in the east and welcomed them to the frontier.

N. M. Ludlow's company followed the Turners to St. Louis in 1819 and opened with a popular comedy called The Honeymoon.

Actors usually toured rural areas in the summer when city theaters were closed. The earliest professionals known to perform in outstate Missouri were Mr. and Mrs. Cargill and company in Jefferson City in June, 1835. They presented a farce titled The Wedding Day; or My First Wife, and a melodrama, The Hunter of the Alps.

The next actors known to venture into rural Missouri were a Mr. and Mrs. Riley and company, who played in Boonville in August, 1829. On one bill there the energetic Mrs. Riley was scheduled to sing a comic song, dance the Highland Fling, sing in Tyrolese costume, and perform a one-act farce called Actress of All Work in which she portrayed six characters herself.

The McKenzies and Jeffersons, a troupe which played in Palmyra in 1840, traveled from place to place in open wagons, riding atop wardrobe trunks, or walking when the horses tired.

In many towns amateur Thespians had already stimulated public taste for plays and helped professional companies by providing theaters or even joining in the performances. Troupes often played two evenings in a town and then remained as long as was profitable.

Programs usually consisted of a full length play and a shorter "afterpiece," with dances and musical numbers between. Missourians in the 1850's were seeing such plays as "The Loan of a Lover," "Mischief Making," "Camille", and "The Drunkard."

A number of people looked with distrust upon theatrical companies, and local preachers sometimes attacked all actors as outlaws and drunkards. To get audiences, managers advertised their plays as highly moral and instructive. One troupe in Missouri in 1854 called themselves the "Adams and Hooker's Elouctionary Class" to justify the entertainment as educational, although they performed "The Stranger and "The Lady of Lyons," both standard favorites of the day.

Gold seekers on the way to Pike's Peak saw performances by the Allen theatrical company in St. Joseph in 1859. This troupe brought dramas by Shakespeare and Sheridan to that rip-roaring boom town and played to crowded houses. Competition took some of their business, however, when the Robert Miles Company arrived with the drama "Mazeppa" which drew the crowds by using a live horse on the stage.

Several of the most famous early day actors performed in Missouri, among them the tragic John Wilkes Booth, who later assassinated President Lincoln.

Smith-Cotton Play Contest On March 21

By Ruth Maurine Hoffman

The Smith-Cotton senior high school intramural play contest will be held March 21 in the Smith-Cotton auditorium, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Play directors and stage managers chosen from the senior class will be: sophomore, Shirley Luckey and Kay Beth Sublett; junior, Alberta Lane and Marge Cummins; senior, Anne Sagar and Bobbie Ann Dale.

The class producing the winning play will be awarded an engraved plaque. The best actor will be given a loving cup.

Intramural plays were first introduced at Smith-Cotton in 1938. They have become so popular that this year it has been necessary to hold separate contests for the junior and senior high schools.

Dick Rucker Is "King"

The leap year dance sponsored by the junior class and held Tuesday evening in the Smith-Cotton cafeteria was well attended. Dick Rucker was crowned Leap Year King by Delores Gorsett.

The juniors are now making plans for the junior-senior prom which will be held April 4.

English Bride Out to Win Pancake Race

LIBERAL, Kan. (AP)—An English war bride will be out this year to bring the international pancake racing title to America for the first time.

She is Mrs. Joan Small, 25, who now makes her home in Liberal.

Mrs. Small will compete with other women here Feb. 26 in the third annual Shrove Tuesday pancake race against the housewives of Olney, England, who will run in their home town.

The [illegible] resident of Liverpool thinks it is perfectly all right for her to run against her former countrywomen.

"I don't see a thing wrong with it," she said. "In fact, I'd sure like to win."

Mrs. Small has worked out on a bicycle to strengthen her legs because, she explains, "that's the way the girls in England get in condition."

Two other English war brides now living in Liberal, Mrs. James Nix and Mrs. Joan Plunk, won't run in the race but they agreed with Mrs. Small that the competition is "a very good idea."

The competition between the women of Liberal and Olney began in 1950 after the women here heard about the pancake races which have featured Shrove Tuesday observances in England for more than 500 years. They sent a challenge to Olney and it was accepted promptly.

Times of the local winners are compared to determine the international champion. The contestants must flip a pancake into the air and catch it in a skillet they carry in the race.

Bob Thomas In Hollywood—

Don McGuire Advises Film Players, 'Find Other Racket'

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Don McGuire, actor turned writer-producer, has this advice for film players: Find yourself another racket, just in case.

McGuire is walking evidence of his own theory. Until a year ago, he was an actor. Then he decided it was more fun to eat regularly, so he turned to the writing of movies, and more recently, producing.

He has changed professions as often as Hedy Lamarr has changed husbands. He was a newspaperman before the war and came to Hollywood after the Army. At first he was a press agent. He went to Warner Brothers to see about an acting job for a girl friend and ended up with a contract for himself. He stayed at the studio three years and then free-lanced. After 35 pictures he decided to give it up.

"I didn't have the drive to be an actor," he remarked. "To be successful you have to work 24 hours at the job. Tony Curtis is a good example. He wanted to be a star more than anything in the world and he pitched himself until he became one. I never could get that enthusiastic about myself."

McGuire wrote a picture for Frank Sinatra and Shelley Winters and quickly landed himself a writing and then a producing post at U-I. But he's not resting on his laurels.

"I have a couple of original story ideas I'm kicking around and I'm working on several other projects," he said. "And just so I'll have another line of work to rely on, I tried my hand at directing the other day."

One of the most admired directors in town is George Sherman. The reason: He always brings his picture in ahead of schedule.

In these money-pinching times that is a desirable attribute. But George not only saves time and money, he provides quality entertainment. Clark Gable even sought him for "Lone Star," but arrangements couldn't be made with Sherman's studio.

An amazing thing about the Sherman method is that he shoots from 8:30 in the morning until around four in the afternoon. Most directors work from 9 to 6. "everybody gets tired in the afternoon," Sherman explained. "I can get just as much done by starting a half-hour earlier and working faster."

His secret for speed: He studies the script the night before and figures out three different ways to shoot each scene. If one fails, he tries the others.

Joan Fontaine admits that her sister, Olivia de Havilland, won't talk to her. But Joan expressed sympathy over the lambasting that Olivia took from the Chicago critics when she played "Candida" on the stage there.

"I know how seriously she takes things," said Joan, "and it must have hurt her very badly."

Mexico Turns Down US Offers of Aid

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 23—(AP)—Mexico has turned down U. S. offers of military aid, and both sides have agreed to end discussions on the touchy subject. Observers blamed Communist pressure for the Mexican action.

A U. S. mission, which came a month ago and held five sessions with local officials, returned to Washington. It had sought a strong Mexican anti-Red declaration in return for aid in building coastal defenses and a fast-striking land force.

Beaman PTA's Unusual Fund Raising Plan for Hot Lunches

By Mrs. George Adams

BEAMAN — When the funds for the hot lunch for the Salem school pupils began to get low, the women of the PTA got busy and got their heads together and here are some of the results:

They began with a breakfast at Mrs. Jack Kellerman's where they paid for the meal. The idea went over so well that each one is taking a turn in having a party each month. Mrs. Frank Summers served 22 guests at a tea party Friday afternoon which netted over $7. Due to illness in the community several others were absent.

They also sponsored a pie supper with the men taking pies which the women bought. The highest pie sold for over $5. Ivan Grimes acted as auctioneer and this affair netted $117.75.

Mrs. Vincent Slatinsky also had an afternoon party at her home which netted over $7, also.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wirth, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McFarland and Willis of Kansas City spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wood.

Members of the Olive Branch church and their pastor, Rev. Henry Hansen, attended services Sunday night at the East Sedalia Baptist church, where baptismal services were held after the evening message with five candidates from the Olive Branch church being baptized.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hansen and little son and Evelyn Hansen were weekend guests of their parents, Rev. and Mrs. Henry Hansen and son, Leslie.

A birthday dinner was held Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Zinn in honor of Mr. Zinn's birthday. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Hood, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Brown and sons, all of Beaman; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jenkins, east of Clifton City; Mrs. Bess Jenkins of Longwood; Mr. and Mrs. George Maness, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Maness, Mr. and Mrs. Will Maness and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maness, all of Sedalia, and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Zinn and children of Smithton.

Guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. Sid Lusk of Green Ridge were Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Summers and son, Mrs. Frank Summers, Hubert and Earl and Judge and Mrs. E. L. Birdsong and Jackie.

Mary Phifer, Mary Jo and Paul Bahner spent Sunday at the Summers home with Mrs. Martha Franken.

Mrs. Walter Doyle and brother, F. J. Mock and their mother, Mrs. Rosetta Mock, went to Nevada on Sunday to visit Mrs. Mock's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Snelson. Mr. Snelson had suffered a light stroke recently, but his condition was fine and he was able to be up. Mrs. Mock remained in the Snelson home for a two weeks' visit.

Boy, 7, Will Live Entire Life In Dark

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Physicians say a 7-year-old boy in a hospital here will never be able to stand the light of day.

The boy, a Mississippi youngster whose name was not released, must live out his life in the dark because of a rare skin condition.

It's called Zeroderma Pigmentosa. It means the boy was born without normal functioning of pigment of the skin which protects tissues from sunlight.

Because of this skin condition, the child is hypersensitive to light and sun — even to artificial light.

Sunlight causes the skin tissues to break down and become cancerous.

"There is no known successful treatment," attending physicians reported. They declined use of their names.

"How long these patients live depends on how much they stay out of light. They may live in darkness and achieve a normal life span."

Under present treatment, the boy's damaged skin is being replaced by grafts taken from areas where clothing protected his body from light.

"There is no possibility of using skin from other people," a physician said.

Army Medics War Against Songo Fever

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Army medical trouble shooter has been assigned to head a scientific task force against an elusive disease enemy in Korea — "songo fever."

That's a Japanese nickname for a malady called "Hemorrhagic fever" which struck 1,000 United Nations troops between last June and the present winter, with about 65 fatalities. It is expected to break out anew this spring.

The Army says that at no time has it reached epidemic proportions but still is considered "a serious proposition."

Dr. Joseph Smadel, a civilian researcher for the Army, will shortly lead a team of Army scientists into Korea to try to solve riddles as to the cause, transmission, prevention and treatment of the disease.

The malady was first noted by the Japanese in Manchuria in the late 1930's.

Maj. Gen. George E. Armstrong, Army surgeon general, who announced the mission of the Smadel team at a news conference, told reporters that so far even the best drugs in medicine's arsenal have proved ineffective in treating "Songo fever."

It's believed, said Armstrong, the disease is caused by a virus and that it is transmitted to man by tiny mites which, in turn, pick it up from infected rats.

Armstrong, who has just returned from a jeep-tour of medical installations in Korea, also reported:

1. A very favorable picture with respect to frostbite — only 700 cases so far this winter, compared with 4,400 at the same time last winter.

2. The death rate from all diseases among American troops in Japan and Korea between July, 1950, and Dec. 26, 1951, was "only 0.14 per cent" — "not a bad mortality rate," said Armstrong.

3. The occurrence rate of neuropsychiatric cases for the same period was "54.1 cases per 1,000 men per year — obviously a very low rate."

Marriage Puts Him Closer to Prison

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Marriage put Jewell Chester Close back in prison.

This came about because (1) he was on parole at the time; (2) his parole officer had told him not to wed, and (3) he got married—to the warden's secretary. Anne Carty, 38.

Close, 39, was a trusty at the state penitentiary in Salem when he first saw her. The love bug had him by the time he was paroled last month, and, despite his parole officer's warning, he married her.

The State Parole Board said it just could not condone this. He already had ignored orders not to drink or drive a car, the board said.

So it revoked his parole yesterday. He has two years remaining of a three-year term for passing bad checks.

What's more, he won't be near his bride at the prison. She already has submitted her resignation, effective March 1.

Sedalia Pilot Beats Storm Which Killed Combat Friend

WICHITA, Kas., Feb. 22—(AP)—Two Navy pilots—buddies in Korean combat—flew into a storm in northeast Kansas last night, en route to the Olathe Naval Air Station.

They turned back, lost radio contact. Today farmers found the body of the senior officer, a lieutenant commander, in a wreckage-strewn gully on a farm five miles southwest of Osage City.

The plane's wheels were down as if for an emergency night landing, Civil Air Patrol headquarters at Wichita reported.

The plane had smashed into the small gully, about 200 yards south of a country road and not far from a farm home.

The farm family failed to hear the crash, GAP officers said. The plane smashed into bits, but did not burn.

Commander's Name Withheld

The name of the pilot was withheld until the commanding officer of his home base, the naval air station, San Diego, Calif., could get word to next of kin. The body was taken to Forbes Air Force base, at Topeka, Kas., nearby.

The second pilot—Lt. Ralph Corson, also from NAS, San Diego—made his way safely back over their night course, landing at Wichita. The two were flying single-engine AD-1 attack bombers, en route from Albuquerque to Olathe.

"Encountering weather" near Lebo, Kas., nearly 100 miles northeast of Wichita about 11 p.m., they reversed course for Witchita, Lt. Corson reported.

Lt. Corson—whose mother is Mrs. L. C. Corson of (1207 East 11th) Sedalia, Mo.—estimated the other pilot had fuel for 45 more minutes when they lost radio contact.

They had flown together two years in Korea, he told CAP officers, and returned to the states about six months ago.

Eighteen search planes were in the air over eastern Kansas when the wrecked plane was found.

City Marshall Bill Washburn at Osage City said the plane was found by a neighbor, Elmer Bishop, on the Otto Kiefire farm. Sheriff Clyde Burns at Lyndon told CAP officers his first report came from another farmer, Kenneth James.

The two planes were within 60 miles of their northeast Kansas goal when they turned back. The crashed plane apparently still was turning when it struck, the CAP said.

Units of the 4th Air Rescue Squadron were en route from Hamilton AFB, Calif., and Lowry AFB, Denver, to Wichita when the air search ended.

After Peace Treaty, Yanks In Japan Will Be Subject to Arrest

TOKYO (AP) — After the peace treaty goes into effect American military personnel stationed in Japan will be subject to arrest by Japanese police, but they will be tried by U. S. Military Courts, a high government official said today.

Acting Foreign Minister Katsuo Okazaki told the Parliament that Japan will grant extra-territorial security to Americans under the U.S.-Japan security pact.

ON CARRIER FDR — Don A Walz, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert I. ### Tipsters Holler

ARCADIA, Calif. — (AP) — The City of Arcadia, home of the famous Santa Antia racetrack, got itself in hot water recently when it banned the sale of tip sheets on city streets.

Tip sheet owners have entered suit against the city maintaining that their horse selection businesses were handled mainly by disabled veterans and that Arcadia's action was unjust and discriminating.

To School First Time, And Probably the Last

PARSONS, Kas., Feb. 21—(AP)—Three-year-old Terry Linn Weitzel went to school today for the first, and probably the last, time.

Doctors say the youngster is suffering from cancer that may take his life within a year.

Since he became old enough to talk, Terry has talked of the day he would start to school. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Weitzel, decided to let Terry realize his wish, so a brief visit to school was arranged with the help of school officials.

Conscientious Objectors Ordered to 2 Years In Civilian Positions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Draft-eligible conscientious objectors have been ordered by President Truman to work 24 consecutive months in civilian jobs approved by their draft boards.

The executive order issued yesterday affects about 8,000 young men who have professed religious objection to military service and up until now have not been ordered into any kind of service.

Not affected are objectors willing to perform non-combatant duties and subject to limited service in the armed forces.

The first of the 8,200 may get their orders in March.

The President's order said they may take jobs—approved by their draft boards—with federal, state or local governments or with a non-profit organization engaged in charitable or public service activity.

They are to be assigned to positions outside their home communities, unless the draft board makes an exception "in the national interest."

And, unlike World War II objectors who were forced to do certain work without compensation, they will be paid the "going wage" by their employers.

Premature Funeral

SIAGON, Indochina,—(AP)—The newspaper, Le Journal D'Extreme Orient, has just reported a "resurrection" in the all-Chinese twin city of Cholon.

It said a 70-year-old Vietnamese woman "died" there recently and friends and relatives gathered in a mortuary to recite prayers.

But, added the journal, the woman suddenly raised herself from the funeral couch. As far as is known, she's still living.

MARKET BASKET'S HIGHER—The basket of groceries that cost $10 in 1939 and $23.75 a year ago has gone up another $1.75 this year. Above Newschart shows comparative prices in cents of certain food staples for 1951 and 1952. Some food prices have dropped but the majority of the items have soared in price despite government controls. Bureau of Labor Statistics officials say indications are that prices will go still higher before they start to level.

GRANDMA'S GOT IT!—Hollywood's youngest grandmother is the title claimed by pretty Patricia Bowers, right, 37-year-old wife of a casting executive and mother of two. Mrs. Bowers is perched alongside movie actress Piper Laurie, for whom she is a stand-in.

Liver Malady Studies

PHOENIX, Ariz.,—(AP)—Puplic health officers are apprehensively watching the worst outbreak of hepatitis (liver inflammation) in the history of the United States.

The epidemic is among children in the Navajo Indian school at Tuba City, Ariz. Of 400 children, more than 300 have the disease. It is not often fatal, but no cure is known and it is capable of spreading far and wide.

In Tuba City the disease was first diagnosed as flu, a common mistake. It was not recognized as hepatitis until an Indian girl died in November. The disease spreads from person to person and also in water and food. The health authorities say an outbreak of the Tuba City size might spread the infection in Arizona and New Mexico.

This form of hepatitis occurs all over the world. The outbreaks are sporadic. Union forces had it in the Civil war and American troops had it in the Pacific and in other patrs of the world in World War II.

Many Convention Delegates Will Be Picked by Both Parties Soon

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23—(AP)—The Republicans will pick a lot of national convention delegates in the next two months—and present signs indicate Senator Taft and Gen. Eisenhower may be running nearly abreast in official results by May 1.

During March and April, a total of 643 GOP delegates will be selected in nine primaries and 14 state conventions. This is more that half the total national convention vote of 1,205. To clinch the nomination at the convention opening in Chicago July 7, a candidate must sew up 603 votes.

The Democrats also will be busy in March and April choosing 424 delegates in seven state conventions and nine primaries. President Truman is sure to get the lion's share of them—if he wants them.

In the Democratic national convention, beginning July 21 in Chicago, there will be 1,230 votes, with 616 needed to nominate. Truman can have that many and more whenever he says the word.

By the time the two months are over, Eisenhower backers will have played some of their trump pre-convention cards, including the expected delivery of most of New York's 96 votes.

The amount of impetus to be given the general's candidacy by primary results in such states as New Hampshire, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania — home areas of some of the top Eisenhower backers—will be demonstrated.

Taft Test in N.H.

Taft will have tested his popular strength in New Hampshire —where he has said he will be satisfied with four out of 14 delegates — and in Wisconsin, a key area for him.

The Ohioan probably will have accounted for most of Illinois' 60 votes, and will have in reserve for May an expected large majority of Ohio's 54.

With California's big state bloc of 70 votes tucked away for Gov. Earl Warren, primaries and conventions in the smaller populated states in May and June now seem unlikely to make either Eisenhower or Taft a first ballot winner.

See Equal Division

An Associated Press state-by-state survey indicates at this time that of 643 delegates to be named in the next few months, more than 500 will be divided, unofficially and about equally, between the two leading candidates.

The tee-off battle is in New Hampshire, where Taft delegates meet a slate of Eisenhower backers made up of the state's top drawer Republicans in the March 11 primary.

A slate has been entered for Gen. Douglas MacArthur against his expressed wish not to run. How it fares may have some bearing on other efforts to promote the general as a candidate.

MacArthur has made it clear he is not for Eisenhower and is regarded as a Taft backer.

Eisenhower's supporters are counting on a heavy vote for him in the preferential, or popularity, primary to support their claim that the general has wide popular appeal to the voters.

Stassen Is Third Man

Former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota has made it a three-man race but hasn't entered any delegate candidates.

In the Democratic primary in New Hampshire, Senator Kefauver (D-Tenn.) is challenging a Truman slate. Kefauver hopes for a showing there which will give him a boost outside New Hampshire.

The scene shifts to Minnesota's March 18 primary and Stassen hopes to come into his own there.

Unless it shakes down, the Minnesota battle might be highly confusing. Eisenhower, Stassen and MacArthur slates have been entered in the quest for the state's 28 Republican votes. The filing of the Eisenhower slate is being challenged and MacArthur has tried to withdraw.

Humphrey a Favorite Son

On the Democratic side, Senator Humphrey is seeking the backing of the state's 26 delegates as a "favorite son." Kefauver said he didn't want to battle Humphrey in his home state, but has made no official move yet to withdraw a slate of delegates.

April 1 will find Taft, Stassen and Governor Warren battling for top honors and 30 delegates in Wisconsin's primary. A MacArthur supporter is making up a slate to be entered for "favorite son" Grant Ritter, who held out for the general to the bitter end in the 1948 convention voting.

Taft is regarded as in the driver's seat in Wisconsin, although Stassen won there in 1948. Warren has coalition support from former Progressives and Eisenhower backers.

Kefauver vs. Kerr

In Nebraska the same day, Kefauver and Senator Kerr of Oklahoma apparently will have it out in a Democratic primary that could have a wide bearing on their aspirations to succeed Truman as the party nominee.

Stassen thus far is the only major GOP entrant in Nebraska, but Senator Butler (R-Nebr.) predicted that "more than 10" of the state's 18-vote Republican delegates will back Taft.

Taft is looking for a popularity "lift" in the April 8 Illinois primary. His supporters are unopposed for a majority of the 50 delegates to be chosen in the primary. Some Eisenhower delegates are running. Stassen is opposing Taft in the preferential primary, not binding on delegates.

Illinois Awaits Truman

Both parties in Illinois will pick 10 at-large delegates in May conventions, making the total for each party 60 each. Kefauver is unopposed in the Democratic preference race, but most of the Democratic delegate candidates are organization followers and awaiting word on Truman's plans.

Almost anything can happen in New Jersey's April 15 primary, where 38 Republican votes are at stake.

Gov. Alfred E. Driscoll has indicated he favors Eisenhower. Senator Hendrickson, who has opposed many of Taft's policies in the Senate, said the Ohioan's strength is rising rapidly.

Eisenhower, Taft and Stassen are likely to wind up in a preferential poll in New Jersey which will not be binding on the delegates but will influence them greatly.

New York for Ike

New York's Republican primary on April 22 will pick 90 delegates, most of them for Eisenhower. Six more are to be chosen later by the state committee nominated by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, Eisenhower backer.

New York Democrats, headed by state chairman Paul Fitzpatrick, are backing Truman with some hints they might go to Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois if the President doesn't run again.

The same day Pennsylvania Republicans will pick 60 district delegates with indications that Taft and Eisenhower may get about equal support. Stassen expects some delegates, too.

Gov. John S. Fine of Pennsylvania is reported telling friends that he looks with favor on MacArthur, but he has insisted publicly that the state's group ought to go to the Chicago convention uncommitted.

Massachusetts' April 29 primary also may be somewhat inconclusive. A ten-vote compromise slate of at-large delegates entered in the primary includes two Taft men; Rep. Joseph Martin, reported plugging MacArthur; and several publicly committed to Eisenhower. The latter group includes Senator Lodge, national Eisenhower manager. The total GOP vote is 38.

Will Back Truman

A Democratic 16-vote at-large slate headed by Gov. Paul A. Dever and Secretary of Labor Tobin will back Truman if he runs, but some delegate candidates for Kefauver may contest in districts. The total of Democratic delegates is 36.

Party conventions will account for the remainder of the delegates to be chosen in the next two months. From local reports, here is how they shape up by states:

Arkansas — Eisenhower forces, headed by Jess Speck, unsuccessful GOP candidate for governor in 1950, are driving for support of four at-large delegates to be picked at the April 25-26 state convention. Seven district GOP delegates to be named in previous meetings. Taft backers claim they will get better than even break. State committee to pick 22-vote Democratic delegation shortly before Chicago convention. Gov. Sidney S. McMath favors Truman but Senators Fulbright and McClellan are against him.

Ike May Get Kansas

Kansas—April 10 state convention to complete picking 22-vote GOP delegation. It may go solidly for Eisenhower as "favorite son" on first ballot, although containing up to a half-dozen Taft supporters. Democratic leaders backing Senator Kerr for state's 16 votes if Truman doesn't run.

Oklahoma — Taft and Eisenhower credited with seven votes each and MacArthur with two in GOP convention previously held. Democrats expected to endorse Kerr was favorite son but not to pledge 24 votes in state completed at April 28 convention.
